BRITISH CRISIS THREATENED

Over 500 Killed In Rebels' Air Raids On Barcelona

HUNDREDS MORE WOUNDED IN NINE SAVAGE ATTACKS

Windows in U. S. Embassy Shattered—Thousands Thronged Streets.

BARCELONA. (AP). Nine insurgent air raids took well over 500 lives Wednesday night and Thursday in this metropolitan capital. One bomb shattered windows in the United States embassy.

Over 400 bodies were recovered.

Hundreds were wounded in a series of bombardments which shook the city at intervals during 16 hours. Casualty lists were incomplete.

A bomb fell near the United States embassy in the ninth raid, which came at 1:50 p. m.—the third daylight assault. The building was jarred and windows were blown in. Col. Stephen O. Fuqua, military attache, alone in the building, was shaken but not hurt. Charge d'Affaires Walter D. Thurston said new temporary quarters would be taken immediately.

Hospitals were still too busy caring for the wounded to issue an official count of the dead but private sources estimated between 50 and 60 died in the ninth rain of bombs.

Deaths in the previous bombardments had been set at 284.

Thousands of persons were on the streets when Generalissimo Franco's airmen struck for the ninth time.

Most of the victims were caught at the entrance of the subway station enroute to work. One bomb fell in the middle of the street, scattering shrapnel in their midst.

Other bombs hit a new section of the city which includes many residential quarters.

One missile struck the city's largest luxury hotel, housing many foreigners, but apparently none was hurt. The ballroom where many gay tea dances are held was demolished.

At one hospital the A. P. correspondent saw bloodstreaked floors, and bloodsoaked stretchers.

The wounded were brought in so fast that doctors and nurses were unable to care for them imme-

ICKES WON'T BLOCK TVA'S NEGOTIATIONS

Will Not Allow PWA Development Program to Interfere With Buying.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Secy. Ickes said he would not permit PWA's $150,000,000 municipal power development program to block TVA's negotiations for the purchase of private electric facilities in the Tennessee valley.

Well informed congressional sources said Senator Barkley (d., Ky.) might head a proposed senate-house investigation of TVA.

Ickes said there had been "a misunderstanding . . . all along" concerning the purchase of the private utilities. He added that the public works administration did not intend to "dictate" what municipalities should do.

"If any city having government loans and grants to construct its own system now wants time for considering the purchase of existing properties it may have it," he said.

The statement followed a conference of Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern, with Director David E. Lilienthal of the TVA looking toward government purchase of the corporation's southeastern properties.

"I think the idea is fine," Ickes said, "and I hope they work out an agreement. I never have been in favor of duplication where it was possible to avoid it."

The secretary, in reply to a question whether he would rather have TVA or PWA projects proceed, said he would "rather have the cities do exactly as they like."

TRIBUTE TO J. E. MILLER

Chamber Resolution Honors an Early President.

President Towle of the chamber of commerce named a committee Thursday to draft resolutions on the death of J. E. Miller, who was president in 1905 and 1906. On the committee are W. A. Selleck, H. K. Burket, H. F. Hovland, Theo Berg, R. M. Joyce and Rev. Walter Aitken.

It was during Mr. Miller's administration, Secy. Whitten recalls, that the old Lincoln Commercial club was re-organized. Its quarters were removed from the old Y. M. C. A. building, southwest corner 13th and N, on Jan. 21, 1906, to the new Fraternity building across the street east.

"One of the first things Mr. Miller did as president," says Mr. Whitten, "was to dispense with the bar. Half a dozen of the old timers protested violently, saying 'If we can't have a bar we won't have a Commercial club.' But the club began to grow and flourish from that very time."

HULL ADDRESSES WORLD ON PEACE

Says Fate Civilization Hinges on Halting International Lawlessness.

WASHINGTON. (UP). Speaking to a world alarmed by threats of war, Secretary of State Hull Thursday declared that the fate of international civilization may hinge upon success in bringing international lawlessness to a halt.

Hull presented a comprehensive statement of the United States' policy—a restatement in careful phrases of his pronouncements and those of President Roosevelt since midsummer of 1937. He spoke before the National Press club.

Expressing frankly his concern over world affairs he characterized developments of recent years "catastrophic," noted that events of past weeks had been "startling" and declared this pattern of developments: "Offers a tragic demonstration of how quickly the contagious source of treaty breaking and armed violence spreads from one region to another."

To critics of American policy—especially those voices raised in congress against the naval expansion proposal and against any program of parallel action with nations whose objectives coincide with America's—Hull declared:

"The triumph of this seclusionist viewpoint would inescapably carry the whole world back to the conditions of medieval chaos, conditions toward which some parts of both the eastern and western worlds are already moving.

"Such is the fate to which extreme isolationists—isolationists at any price—all those who contend that we should neither protest against abuses nor co-operate with others toward keeping principles alive, those who say that under no circumstances should we insist upon any rights beyond our own territorial waters—such is the fate to which blind extremism of this type would consign this country and the world."

He said flatly America has no alliance or understanding as has been charged with any foreign nation, and has no intention of forming any He said the United States has not the slightest intention "to entertain any such notion as the use of American armed forces for policing the world."

On the other hand, he asserted, this nation proposes to continue to respect the rights and interests of all peace loving nations, and intends that all other nations respect American lives, property and rights in all parts of the world.

While pursuing a policy of peace with all nations, Hull said this government will not permit its defense forces to deteriorate when other nations are arming to the teeth.

STUDENTS TO KANSAS CITY

Study Institutional Management at First Hand.

Twenty students in institution administration at the college of agriculture are in Kansas City, visiting half a dozen or more outstanding cafeterias there, in addition to the Menorah hospital and wholesale grocery companies. They will also visit the new high school in Kansas City, Kas., renowned for its modern equipment. They are preparing for work as dietitians in hospitals, managers of lunch rooms, tea rooms, restaurants, residence halls, students unions and cafeterias in college and public schools. Miss Ruth Post accompanied the students, who are making the trip by chartered bus. They will return to Lincoln Friday.

FAMOUS MEN MAY SPEAK AT U. OF N. NEXT AUTUMN

T. Z. Koo, Stanley Jones and Others May Be Here for Religious Week.

After detailed discussion of the project, the group referred the matter to the committee on visiting speakers, of which Dr. Charles Patterson is chairman. Officials of the council expressed a feeling that the project would probably be carried out here. The only serious objection, they said, was the matter of financing it. Dr. Patterson's committee will discuss financing and probable student responsiveness and report to the council at the next meeting, April 7.

About 100 students and faculty members of the University of Nebraska, plus a number of Lincoln clergymen, met at the University Episcopal church for luncheon Thursday to discuss the possibility of bringing a group of the world's Christian leaders to the campus next fall for a religious emphasis week. The meeting was under auspices of the Religious Welfare Council. Chancellor Burnett was among those attending.

Jesse M. Bader, executive secretary of the department of evangelism of the Federal Council of Churches and national director of the University Christian Mission, addressed the group on behalf of the latter organization. There is a growing interest in religion among university students over the nation, he said, and the University Mission has been formed to aid in meeting this need. He was here, he said, to sound out possibilities at the University of Nebraska.

The committee, he said, is made up of the Student Volunteer movement, the national board of church colleges of the United States, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., and the Federal Council of Churches. Test meetings have been held during the past year, he said, and a series of religious emphasis weeks on at least a dozen great university campuses will be held this fall.

Some of the world's most prominent Christian leaders will be among the speakers who will travel about the country conducting these meetings, the speaker said. He mentioned T. Z. Koo,

RARIG SAYS PEOPLE NEED DIRECT RELIEF

Minnesota Relief Official Urges Another $400,000,000 Appropriated.

WASHINGTON. (AP). A Minnesota relief official told the senate unemployment committee that despite "tremendous expenditures" for WPA and other forms of public assistance, "people are actually starving for the lack of adequate direct relief."

F. M. Rarig, jr., urged that congress appropriate $400,000,000 a year for direct relief, in addition to works projects.

Rarig, executive secretary of the Ramsey county welfare board at St. Paul, said that local communities had been unable to bear the cost of direct relief.

Rarig testified WPA was paying women from $60.50 to $71.50 a month to keep house for relief families while maids are hired by private employers for $5 to $6 a week, with room and board.

The witness said this was an example of the "desperate efforts" of the WPA to attempt to provide employment for women.

Expenditures in his county for direct relief in February, Rarig said, totaled $334,772 despite the fact WPA was employing "practically every eligible person" under its rules, he continued, the local community was forced to provide direct relief in 7,708 cases.

Herman A. Gray, chairman of the New York state unemployment insurance advisory council, told the committee that the present system of handling compensation is "cumbersome, complex and confused." He suggested "fundamental" revision, including a single federal tax instead of the nearly 50 different types of taxes he said were being collected.

THE MERRY MONTH OF MARCH

NORRIS OPPOSES ANY LIMITING OF POWER

Feels Sure President Would Not Attempt to Transfer the TVA.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Senator Holt (d., W. Va.) told the senate the Guffey coal act was enacted by congress "because John L. Lewis donated nearly half a million dollars to the democratic party campaign fund." The youngest member of the senate had the floor to discuss the reorganization bill and launched a general castigation of the administration.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Senator Norris told the senate that he opposed limiting the power of the president to reorganize government bureaus despite the fact that the TVA could be included in such a shakeup.

The Nebraskan said he was confident the president would not disturb that agency in shuffling bureaus under terms of the pending reorganization measure.

Some senators said privately more "pressure" was being applied than on any other senate bill since President Roosevelt's supreme court enlargement program was defeated last summer. The vote was expected to be close on the Wheeler amendment, to require that the president submit reorganization orders to congress before they become effective.

Norris said he would vote against Wheeler's proposal because he felt congress must delegate the power to the president if reorganization is to be effected. He said he had faith that the president would not attempt to do "such a senseless thing" as to attempt to transfer the TVA to any other bureau.

Senator Holt, (d., W. Va.), speaking in support of the Wheeler amendment, said he could not "sit idly by and watch further concentration of power in the hands of the president and further abdication of power by congress."

Report of $75,000 Left by Father "Exaggerated," Says J. R. Johnson; Would Quit Work if It Were True

J. R. Johnson, 617 No. 15th, a Missouri Pacific brakeman, said Thursday morning in commenting on an Associated Press report that his father, Fred E. Johnson, had left $75,000 upon his death at Olympia, Wash., "I think it's exaggerated an awful lot." He said he had no idea where his father would have gotten such a sum of money and did not believe that the $75,000 was anything more than a figment of too active imaginations.

His father, he said, was a printer all his life and had been on a pension for the past 10 or 12 years. "I guess the story got started that he had a lot of money," Johnson said, "because he didn't work and came back here every year to visit his mother. He has a little piece of property that isn't worth much, and he may have a couple of thousand dollars, but I thing that's about all."

Asked what he would do with the $75,000, just in case it did turn out to be real, Johnson said he did not know. "There's more than me, you know," he said. "There's five of us." Would he quit work? "Well, if I ever had enough money, I would." Would he leave Lincoln? "Yes." Would he go around the world? "Probably not," said Johnson. He plans to go to Washington and straighten out his father's affairs sometime after funeral services have been held here.

Johnson has three brothers and a sister, all living in Lincoln. The brothers are H. F., F. W., and E. B. Johnson, and the sister is Mrs. J. C. Bockoven.

LEMKE PROPOSES $5 RAILROAD FARE LIMIT

Would Postalize Passenger Rates, Dividing U. S. Into Zones.

WASHINGTON. (UP). Representative Lemke (r., N. D.), presented a plan to place a ceiling of $5 on railroad passenger fares as President Roosevelt resumed a conference seeking a solution of economic and financial problems of the 26 billion dollar rail industry.

Lemke introduced his bill to "postalize" passenger rates as Mr. Roosevelt met with railroad, financial and congressional leaders for the second time in a week.

Lemke's bill which would divide the country into zones, similar to the system upon which the post-office department operates parcel post. Under his bill, the price of passenger transportation anywhere in the United States could not exceed $5.

Thus, Lemke said, passenger fare from New York to San Francisco would be $5. Fare from New York to Chicago would be $3. Lemke said a tremendous rush of new passenger traffic which would result from such a system more than would offset the differential between the "postalized" rates and the present tariffs.

Successful operation of the plan, Lemke said, eventually would lead to inclusion of freight rates, would equalize transportation thruout the country and stimulate travel thru "reduced passenger fares."

CITY PURCHASES OLD SLOT MACHINE UNIT

Not, However, for Commercial Usage—To Make Metal Tags.

Purchase of an aluminum nameplate slot machine by the city caused some consternation until it became known that it is not the purpose to use it commercially. It can be tripped in such manner as to keep the slot silent. It formerly was used as a 5-10-15 cent machine at an Omaha amusement park. It is old and rusty but serviceable and cost $50 whereas, according to Charles Saal, property man, a new one would set the municipality back $350 to $400.

It is to be used exclusively for grinding out aluminum number plates to be attached to city equipment which is concerned in the current WPA inventory project. Director Berg estimates that a minimum of 25,000 plates will be required for this purpose at this time with the total perhaps running much higher. Two rolls of metal came with the machine, enough to do the job. On basis of 25,000 plates, the director figures, the cost will run one-fifth cent each. Before authorizing purchase of the machine he asked for quotations and found that plain metal plates would cost more than 1 cent each and that with numbers, the cost would be at least 3 cents each. Since the inventory is to be perpetual, the machine allegedly will have future use.

Each tag will carry department number, article number and relative number in the particular class. For instance, under this system, all chairs will carry department key numbers but also numerals making it possible to immediately determine total number of chairs owned by the city. There are about 35 department key numbers.

Each department will be given a complete card index of its own equipment while a complete index of all properties of the several departments will be maintained in the accounting department.

The WPA is making the enumeration.

NEW BUILDING AT KEARNEY

Board of Control to Let Bids on $125,000 Hospital.

The board of control will receive bids for a new ward building at the Kearney's men's tuberculosis hospital April 14. The building will have 66 beds in addition to operating, x-ray and sun rooms.

C. W. Eubank, board member, stated $125,000 will be available for construction purposes, which must pay all expenses including architects fees as well as the general, plumbing and heating and electric contracts.

The building will be fire proof, of brick and concrete construction. The purpose of the building, Eubank stated, is to do away with a waiting list. Altho there are a few cases that are waiting now, he said, they will be taken care of as soon as possible.

Eubank said $45,000 is available for a power house at the institution and bids will be called for within the next month.

District Judge Hastings said he would grant another trial this term if both sides were ready.

YOUNGER MEN IN TROUBLE

Five of Seven Held in Jail Are Under 21.

A checkup of seven men being held in the city jail for the federal grand jury which convened at 1:30 p. m. Thursday, revealed that five are below the age of 21, the youngest being 17.

Altho the jury may not complete its deliberations before a late hour Saturday it is possible that a few arraignments may take place before the finish, assuming that true bills are to be returned.

Ambrose C. Epperson, Omaha, assistant United States attorney, was here to assist Atty. Hawxby in the presentation of matters. Mr. Hawxby expected to present 22 or 23 with postal violations and transportation of stolen cars from one state to another leading the list.

John C. Byrnes, United States marshal from Omaha, is also here.

LITVINOFF INVITES POWERS TO A PARLEY

Will Discuss Joint Action Aimed at Checking Further Aggression.

MOSCOW, (AP). Foreign Minister Litvinoff invited powers other than Germany, Japan and Italy to discuss joint action aimed at "checking further development of aggression and eliminating increased danger of a new world massacre."

He made the proposal in behalf of the soviet government. The invitation will be sent to the United States as well as other nations because of the danger of war growing out of Germany's annexation of Austria and Polish-Lithuanian frontier conflicts.

Litvinoff disclosed that Russia had informed Poland in "a quite friendly way" that the soviet union considered the situation between Poland and Lithuania a danger to the peace of eastern Europe.

(Poland has brought pressure to bear on Lithuania for "normalization of their relations—they have had no diplomatic relations since 1920 when Poland seized Wilno—and for settlement of a border clash in which a Pole was killed.)

He affirmed Russia's readiness to abide by the League of Nations covenant, the Briand-Kellogg peace pact and Russia's mutual asistance treaties with France and Czechoslovakia.

Litvinoff said he was urging the invited powers to discuss joint action to save Czechoslovakia from attack by Germany and Lithuania from Polish aggression.

In one of his rare press conferences, the foreign minister indicated other powers would be sounded out on methods whereby collective action could be discussed when soviet ambassadors had presented his first proposals to other governments.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Diplomatic students said Thursday there was little chance the United States would accept the soviet government's invitation to discuss joint action on means of stopping international aggression. Careful study, they said, however, undoubtedly would be given the proposal of Litvinoff.

EARLY DAY ORCHARD SOLD

Drouths Killed Most Trees Planted in 1899.

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP). One of the pioneer attempts at fruit growing in Richardson county on a large scale was recalled to early residents Thursday with the closing out sale of the Loy L. Franklin fruit farm. The late Allen Franklin, father of Loy Franklin, set out the original orchard of 90 acres in 1899. The drouth of recent years, which claimed thousands of trees in this county, was blamed for destruction of the orchard. Remaining is scarcely a single tree of the old orchard which could be considered capable of producing marketable apples. There are about 20 acres of new orchards. The orchard itself was sold to Albert Merz at a sheriff's sale for $9,500.

TREE SHIPPING TO START

Million Going to Farmers This Year for Windbreaks.

Shipment of broadleaf trees from Fremont to Nebraska farmers under the Clarke-McNary program will start around March 21, says Clayton W. Watkins, extension forester at the college of agriculture. Evergreen stock will be shipped from Halsey beginning about March 28.

Watkins estimates shipments will total around 200,000 to 250,000 trees a day to around 25 counties.

"A few days of cold weather after the trees are planted will not injure them," he comments. "If weather forces you to delay the planting for more than a few hours, dig a sloping trench in which the trees can be spread out (not in bundles) then cover the roots and part of the tops with moist soil, packing this soil thoroly so that air cannot get down around the roots."

He suggests placing shingles on the southwest side of evergreens immediately after planting.

YOUNG DRIVER ARRESTED

Runs Into Motorcycle Officer, Fails to Stop.

OMAHA. (UP). The driver, Leo Kemler, who had five other young persons in the car, was booked on charges of reckless driving, speeding, leaving the scene of an accident, having no safety sticker and no drivers license.

An officer who fired two shots in the air in an attempt to halt the fleeing driver, said Kemler drove thru a red light, striking his motorcycle and injuring his right ankle, then continued on without stopping. Kemler spent the night in jail, but early Thursday he posted a $250 bond for appearance March 24.

Some of his clothes were found on the river bank. His father said the young man suffered a nervous breakdown a year ago. He was a meter reader for the metropolitan utilities district.

DEFICIT IS CUT.

State Treasurer Jensen reported Thursday Nebraska's general fund deficiency has dropped from three quarters to half a million dollars. Tax collections from county treasurers and the state insurance department accounted for the decline, he said.

BAN BEER AND POOL.

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP). Buffalo county supervisors warned relief clients that beer-buying and pool-playing must stop at once. The board adopted a resolution saying the "board will use its influence to have those found indulging in this practice dropped from the (assistance and WPA) rolls."

UNION ORGANIZING TIRE SERVICE MEN

Strike Called at Bob Robinson's Is First Move in New Campaign.

The truckers and teamsters union made one more move Thursday toward tightening its control over Lincoln business with the calling of a strike of employes at the Bob Robinson Tire Service station at 320 So. 13th st.

Robinson said that if he hired anybody he "will continue to operate" but it was his idea at the present to "just close down."

"I don't care if my boys join the union," he said, "if they're not satisfied with the wages and hours they should have quit last winter. I carried them thru the winter."

Robinson called it most unfair that he had been singled out for the strike. He said, to his knowledge, no other tire dealer or service station had signed any union contract.

"I haven't signed any contract and I wouldn't now, today or ever," he said. "They came up here yesterday, five big fellows, and told me they'd give me a chance. That contract that they presented me was so unbelievable I didn't even finish reading it."

Asked if there was an attempt to picket his place Robinson said there was technically no picketing altho an early morning attempt at blocking his driveways was halted by police action.

Other tire dealers were just as emphatic in their opposition to a union contract altho a few admitted they were negotiating.

"Business just doesn't justify it," said one big dealer. "It's costing more money to run and taxes are piling up on us. We kept these fellows all winter."

H. Tankersley, business agent of the union, could not be reached for a statement.

MORE NURSES ARE AT WORK

Miss Martin Tells Work of Educational League.

There are daily more than 10,000 persons sick in bed in Nebraska, Miss Carol L. Martin, director of the state bureau of education and registration for nurses, estimated. She based her estimate on American Medical Association statistics which show more than 8,000 patients are cared for daily in 97 listed hospitals and sanitariums.

"In addition," Miss Martin said, "a very large number of patients receive care in other hospitals and in homes. It is obvious that the preparation of nurses for a professional level of service which only can provide safe, intelligent nursing care for the people, is a highly important function of the state."

Chief purpose of the bureau, she said, is to establish a system of nursing education "which will thoroly prepare professional nurses to meet the growing needs of our communities." Last year 4,116 licenses were issued, compared with 3,692 in 1936. Enrollment in Nebraska nursing schools totaled 923 last year and 807 in 1936. Miss Martin attributed both increases to shorter working hours and the fact the federal government has "opened new programs in public health nursing."

A district meeting of the public health nursing section is being held Thursday evening at the Y. W. C. A., with Miss Martin presiding.

CITY HALL NEWS.

The zone board of appeals, in session Thursday, deferred action on the re-referred application of M. Elsie Colman for usage at 148 So. 27th which will permit of funeral home occupancy. The board recently recommended that it be denied. Two years ago, however, the board recommended a temporary permit for this use but was overruled. Action was deferred to give members opportunity to study a brief submitted by Bruce Fullerton, attorney for applicant. The board recommends garage setback for Charles Wright at 1535 LeGros conditioned upon construction on the north 100 feet of the lot. It also recommends extension of the one-year permit, granted a year ago to Elsie McCrimmon, for grocery store occupancy at 2726 No. 36th. Action was again deferred on request of the Nebraska Neon company for permit to maintain an illuminated signboard near 73rd and Thayer.

Dep. Atty. Miles has directed a communication to the council recommending settlement of a car damage claim against C. W. Ewart, Geneva, Neb. On Feb. 21, under the viaduct near Havelock, on slippery pavement, a collision occured between a city car driven by Plant Engineer Blumer and a truck driven by Ewart. The city contends that Ewart was at fault. The city car was damaged to the extent of $90. Mr. Ewart has offered $35 in settlement and the attorney recommends acceptance on the theory that to maintain a suit in another county would be impracticable.

Word reached the city hall Thursday that because of prospective unemployment in Havelock and for other reasons, it may be deemed practical to make available all possible garden plots. Director Erikkson said he will discuss with Park Superintendent Ager availability of city-owned lands some of which have heretofore been used for WPA gardens. Mayor Copeland said that if there is demand for more ground for gardening he will be pleased to recommend that owners of unimproved tracts make these available, under WPA lease without charge, for such purpose.

RETURNS APPLICATION.

The secretary of state Thursday returned for correction an application from the Papio soil conservation district of Washington county which seeks to complete organization of the first soil district in Nebraska.

Donald Devries, deputy secretary of state, said the petition showed the supervisor of the district to have been appointed March 9, 1937, before the law was passed by the unicameral legislature providing for creation of such districts.

BINDWEED GROUP MEETS

The state bindweed advisory committee discussed plans here Thursday for inaugurating a spring campaign against the infestation of thousands of acres of Nebraska farm land. W. H. Brokaw, agricultural extension director and committee chairman, said the program has been delayed because of general farm conditions and due to many agricultural leaders devoting most of their time in behalf of the new federal farm law. A bindweed district has been organized in Scottsbluff county and another is in the process of formation in Platte county.

CROP OUTLOOK BRIGHT.

Boone county crop prospects are better than at any time during the past three or four years, V. O. Walker, Petersburg farmer, Thursday told State and Federal Crop Statistician Anderson.

Walker said Boone county, described by Anderson's office as probably the hardest hit drouth area in Nebraska last year, received 1½ inches of moisture this week and about a foot of snow in February. He said rye prospects do not appear as favorable as a year ago.

ACQUITTED IN TAX CASE.

CHICAGO. (AP). A criminal court jury Wednesday night acquitted three men charged with conspiracy to defraud the state of $34,000 in sales taxes. The verdict was reached after an hour and a half of deliberation. Acquitted were Edmond La Vole, discharged sales tax investigator, and William McFadden and David K. Springwater, officials of the defunct McFadden Motor company. The state charged La Vole accepted $4,032 from the McFadden firm to "fix" its sales tax returns.

MAY COPY BREAD LAW.

A. L. Haecker, state pure foods bureau chief, said Thursday New York and Texas officials have indicated they intend to use Nebraska's bread law as a pattern for legislation in their states.

"Nebraska's bread law is the only one in the nation to have received the federal supreme court's sanction," he said. It empowers the state agriculture department to prescribe standard weights of bread loaves.

HONOR WAGGENER PAIR.

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP). The Richardson County Medical society honored Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Waggener of Humboldt, who celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently, at a meeting here Wednesday night. Mrs. O. F. Lang of Falls City was elected president of the auxiliary. Mrs. W. E. Shook of Shubert was chosen vice president, and Mrs. C. A. Medlar of Verdon, secretary-treasurer.

TO LIGHT UP NIAGARA.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP). Beams from 24 giant searchlights will slash thru the dusk at Niagara Falls Saturday night to cavort in a billion candle power "ghost dance" on the cataract. The multi colored lights have been out since the worst ice jam in 30 years disabled the gigantic Ontario hydroelectric power commission plant below the falls, two months ago.

FOG CHEATS HOOVER.

STOCKHOLM. (AP). Fog cheated former President Herbert Hoover of lunch with Sweden's crown prince, Gustav Adolf. Hoover's steamer from Helsingfors, Finland, was delayed six hours so the prince had to eat without his intended honor guest. He received the former president in a half hour audience later, however. Hoover will fly to London Friday.

BRYAN HAS THE SHINGLES

Painful Illness Now in Its Fifth Week.

Reports that he is seriously ill brought the statement from Charles W. Bryan, that he is "merely being annoyed with an ailment known as shingles."

"It is not what you would call a danegrous ailment, but is a very painful inflammation of the nerves," he commented. "It's just a case of letting it run its course, which is from three to six or seven weeks. As a result, it requires patience and tolerance."

The ailment is now "running into its fifth week." The former democratic chief executive, who is sponsoring a homestead tax exemption movement, said he is transacting business from his home, with assistance of Mrs. Bryan.

WORKS FOR PORK TARIFF

WASHINGTON. (AP). When congress adopted an amendment to the tax bill, offered by Representative Thompson (d., Ill.), placing an excise tax on imports of pork products, Representative Coffee of Nebraska said he would not abandon plans to amend the tariff act to increase the pork import rates until he learned what the senate would do with the tax bill. For months Coffee, working with Thompson, has sought to increase the tax rates on pork, especially canned Polish hams.

NEW YORK. (AP). Wanted by New York police—women with brains and curves instead of brawn. Police officials said the new appointees would be used in cases requiring specialized knowledge, charm or investigative ability.

Detective Holloway left Thursday for Quincy, Mass., with a requisition for John Henry Baker, alias J. R. Allen, wanted here on forgery charges. Baker, or Allen, was released from the Connecticut penitentiary in December, and more recently has been in jail at Quincy. Complaint filed here Aug. 31, 1936, charges that Baker passed a check here the previous May, made on a form of the Minnesota Canning company at St. Paul and purporting to be signed by C. W. Borgman, its treasurer. The check was for $187. The man is also wanted in West Virginia and Louisiana, and at Spokane, officers here were told.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP). A Sacramento area sheep rancher was shocked to see his sheep collapse suddenly, roll in agony, and then run drunkenly away from a corner of the pasture. Virgil L. Dinsmore pleaded guilty Thursday before District Judge Chappell to obtaining money under false pretense and was placed on probation for one year. It was claimed that he had given a mortgage on a car and on a piano which he did not own and obtained $84 from the State Securities company. He had been in jail 36 days. He promised to pay back the amount.

Charles S. Kilmer, jr., of Arnold filed with the secretary of state Thursday as a candidate for the unicameral legislature from the 38th district. Kilmer gave his age as 55 and his occupation as a farmer and stockman. He seeks election in Lincoln and Frontier counties, the district now represented by Harry L. Pizer of North Platte.

Suit for $50,900 was filed in district court Thursday by William M. Byrkit against Federal Securities company and Federal Credit company. He says he was owner of 509 shares of corporate stock of par value of $100 of the now defunct and bankrupt Federal Trust company. He complains of certain acts of the defendants, alleging that they caused loss to stockholders of the trust company. Suit was filed by Atty. Arthur Balis.

Suit of Edward H. Henning against Lancaster county for $7,500 damages went to trial to a jury in District Judge Chappell's court Thursday. Henning claims that his car hit a bridge on the Denton-Emerald road on July 16, 1936 due to negligence of the county and he was seriously injured. He claimed that an excavation had been made at the approach of the bridge and no warning sign placed before it. The county says there was a sign "bridge out" and also a detour which he failed to take.

A contour demonstration is to be held on the Russell Deats farm three miles west and a mile south of Bennet Friday at 1:30 p. m. Contour farming has saved a great deal of good soil and produced more yield. E. H. Doll extension agronomist will assist with the demonstration.

Administratrix of the estate of Arthur Eaton appealed Thursday to the supreme court from the action of District Judge Broady in directing the jury to find for defendants in the $23,010 damage suit brought by her against the trustees of the estate of D. H. Merritt, and also John J. Bogan and W. A. Gillan, Eaton's employers. She claimed Eaton's death under a load of cement dumped by a Merritt company cart was caused by the failure of the brakes to hold on an incline, and also alleged that parking it on an incline was negligence. The defense was that a grandson of Eaton did not provide proper blocking of the wheels and Eaton was guilty of contributory negligence in that he supervised the preparations for unloading. The court held that the risks of the business were obvious and had been assumed by deceased. The suit was for $15,510 damages to kin for loss of support and the remainder for the suffering of Eaton, who died the day he was hurt, March 11, 1937, at 1002 So. 32nd.

CABINET REVOLT IS ON

outside his cabinet drove Prime Minister Chamberlain into a precarious position. His tenure of power was imperilled by a vigorous demand by his youthful secretary for war, Leslie Hore-Belisha, that the prime minister announce a firmer course in dealing with Europe's crisis.

A warning came from a committee of influential conservatives that Chamberlain's foreign policy must be changed quickly or they would join the opposition. Winston Churchill, key member of World war cabinets, and Robert J. G. Boothby, headed the committee.

Labor party circles discussed the possibility of Chamberlain's resignation within 48 hours in favor of an interim government, to be headed by his predecessor, Earl Baldwin of Bewdley.

In the house of commons, however, Chamberlain stuck to his guns. He ignored repented labor cries of "Answer!" after Phillip P. Noel-Baker, laborite, asked whether in the event of armed conflict in western Europe, as the result of unprovoked aggression in violation of the league covenant, Britain would fulfill its league and ocarno obligations for armed assistance.

Want Stronger Stand.

At least two cabinet ministers —Hore Belisha and Malcolm MacDonald, dominions secretary, wanted definite pledges of aid to Czechoslovakia if she were attacked and strong action to prevent Italy and Germany from dominating Spain.

Walter Elliot, secretary for Scotland; W. S. Morrison, minister of agriculture, and W. G. A. Ormsby-Gore, colonial secretary, were reported wavering but likely to fall into line behind Hore-Belisha.

The return to the foreign office of Anthony Eden, who resigned because he would not follow Chamberlain's policy of bargaining with the dictators, was considered possible.

Hore-Belisha was said to have declared plainly he could not endorse Britain's policy of hands off the Spanish war, which, he said, threattened to leave Spain at the mercy of Italy and Germany and make Gibraltar untenable for the British empire.

The Jewish war secretary is believed to have the backing of the army general staff, which he recently reorganized under General Viscount Gort.

Chamberlain is believed to be fully supported by the majority of the cabinet in his desire for caution over Czechoslovakia and determination not to burn his fingers over Spain.

Informed sources said if the Churchill-Boothby threat were carried out at least 50 government supporters in the house of commons would join the opposition.

Four famous British politicians —Eden, Lord Baldwin, Churchill and David Lloyd George, World war prime minister—were in the south of France, enroute there or preparing to go there. It was believed they would confer on the situation.

HUNDREDS MORE WOUNDED

diately. Most appeared dazed or unconscious.

HENDAYE, France. (AP). Spanish insurgents reported they had driven the last government defenders from Caspe and had occupied the town in their eastward march toward the Mediterranean.

Dispatches from Burgos, seat of Generalissimo Franco's government, said Caspe was taken with the aid of reinforcements rushed up from Alcaniz, advance point of the insurgent drive menacing the government held coast.

Earlier government reports said government forces southeast of Caspe rallied and smashed thru insurgent lines to relieve their beleagured garrison there.

They said then the insurgents' drive had been stopped and Franco's troops had been forced to turn back to smother resistance on their left flank.

TO BRING FAMOUS MEN

eminent Chinese Christian; E. Stanley Jones, world famed missionary; Dr. Bryan Green of the Anglican church, London, and a number of others. Among others he named who may be in the group was Bishop Oxnam of Omaha.

"We're not bringing a lecture course," Mr. Bader said. He pointed out that the emphasis is distinctly on religion, the men versed in various fields will speak before corresponding college groups. For example, he said, T. Z. Koo was once an engineer in China and will consequently spend much of his time meeting with engineers on the various campuses.

During the religious emphasis week, Mr. Bader said, there will be a public meeting each evening, with conferences and group meetings during the day. Every opportunity will be given students, he pointed out, to ask questions of the speakers. "We are interested primarily," he said, "in helping students solve their problems and in getting them to really live."

The national budget for the project is about $25,000, Mr. Bader said. He declared that the cost to the local community would run between $300 and $600 for the week. This sum, he said, would include lodging for the speakers and any advertising which the local committee would care to undertake.

"It would cost about $100 or $125 a day for 15 speakers?" asked Chancellor Burnett. "That would be about right," said Mr. Bader. A smaller group remained after the luncheon to discuss details of the plan for the University of Nebraska campus. Religious and faculty leaders expressed enthusiasm for the project.

CERTIFICATES FOR BONDS

Bondholders' Plan Urged as Being Economical.

Bennett S. Martin, owner of more than $100,000 at par value of the ten year 6 percent collateral trust sinking fund gold bonds of Woods Brothers corporation, debtor in proceedings for reorganization, Thursday filed in federal court prayer for an order on such terms as the court may deem proper authorizing the bondholders reorganization committee to issue certificates of deposit in exchange for bonds without necessity of making application to the securities and exchange commission at Washington.

Mr. Martin's bonds have been deposited with the bondholders committee whose petition for the approval of terms and conditions of the issuance and exchange of securities has been filed with the court but not yet ruled upon.

As a bondholder, applicant shows that he is interested in the most economical and expeditious method of submission of a plan for reorganization. He alleges that an application to the securities and exchange commission for approval of certificates of deposit desired to be issued by the bondholders reorganization committee would be expensive and would result in considerable delay in the proposal of and consideration of a plan for reorganization.

In his opinion, he says, provisions of the proposed certificate of deposit to be issued are fair to all bondholders.

ELBA, ALA., IS ALARMED

ELBA, Ala. (AP). Many Elba citizens who moved out of their homes when a levee break left the city unprotected from flood waters, began returning. Virtually all the 3,000 citizens spent a sleepless night, ready to flee if the flooded Pea river engulfed the town as it did in the disastrous 1929 flood. The river began to fall but other towns on the stream and the Conecuh and Choctawhatchee rivers braced for flood crests yet to come.

The toll of dead from storms that swept central Alabama early this week stood at five. At least 50 persons were injured and hundreds left homeless by storms before the floods developed. Southeast Alabama streams were sent to dangerous levels, after downpours accompanying the storms reached nine inches in some localities.

MISSOURI OPEN IN N. D.

Few Minor Ice Jams and River Rising Slowly.

BISMARCK, N. D. (AP). The Missouri river was open Thursday thruout its North Dakota course except for minor ice jams and tho it was rising slowly, rivermen said there appeared little danger of floods. A tributary, the Heart river, forced 30 families to leave their lowlands homes in the Mandan area and drove 245 men from a CCC camp to higher ground. An ice jam in the Heart still held, but the water level was receding.

Approximately 200 head of livestock were reported lost and some farm buildings damaged in especially low areas around Sanish and Hoffland, but others whose lands were inundated said the waters promised abundant hay crops.

RETIRING AGENT HONORED

Fred Maule With Northwestern Road 47 Years.

SEWARD, Neb.—The chamber of commerce had as guest of honor at its weekly dinner Fred M. Maule, agent of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad at Seward, who is retiring March 31 after 47 years of service for that railroad.

FRED M. MAULE.

Mr. Maule began work at the age of 22, as relief man for the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley, which later became the C. & N. W. railroad. He started as telegraph operator and worked eight months, then went to Missouri Valley as checker for three months. For the next four months he was agent at Dwight, and during this period he married Miss May York of Bee. His later service included a year as agent at Oak, four years at Brainard, seven years at Graham, two periods at David City, with an interval of six years at Beaver Crossing, and the past five years at Seward.

A native of Pennsville, O., Fred Maule came with his parents overland in 1871 to Milford, where they stopped for a few months, then moving to Beaver Crossing, where his father, Edward Maule, was the first blacksmith. During his long and active service, he has never lost a day by illness and is in very good health. He and Mrs. Maule will return to David City to make their home. They have three daughters, Mrs. Maude Hewitt, David City; Mrs. Florence Clarke, Fort Collins, Colo.; Mrs. Avis Harper, Lincoln, and a son, Frank Maule of David City. Guests from out of town, who came to honor Mr. Maule, at the dinner Tuesday evening, were A. H. Warring, trainmaster; F. A. Hall, chief train dispatcher, and J. L. Schulz, agent, all of Fremont.

Symposium Concerning Art in the Exhibition at Morrill Hall Will Be Held There Sunday Afternoon

Opening a series of three Sunday afternoon gallery discussions on the Nebraska Art association's current exhibition of painting and sculpture now being shown at Morrill hall, a symposium will be presented at 3 p. m. Sunday by four Lincoln people whose opinions and reactions in connection with the art show should be of interest to the public. The usual gallery admittance fee will entitle visitors to visit the exhibition and attend the symposium. University students and members of the Nebraska Art association are admitted without charge.

Concentrating on the paintings and sculpture in gallery A for the first symposium, an informal discussion on questions that have been provoking comment since the opening of the exhibition will be conducted by Prof. Dwight Kirsch, Mrs. B. E. Moore, Miss Bess Steele, and Prof. O. K. Bouwsma. On the following Sunday, a symposium made up of four or five other Lincoln people will conduct a similar discussion of the paintings in gallery B.

Dr. J. E. M. Thomson will be chairman of the symposium Sunday afternoon. Prof. Kirsch, who will make introductory remarks concerning the motive of the exhibit and indicate how and why the various works in the show were chosen, will also touch upon the "whys and wherefores" of abstract and cubistic painting as exemplified by the French moderns in the gallery. An interpretation of the sculpture in the exhibition will fall to the lot of Miss Steele, Lincoln artist and member of the faculty of the University of Nebraska in the department of home economics.

Mrs. Moore, prominent Lincoln business woman who has been in charge of the art department of a Lincoln firm will be interested in a consideration of the kind of pictures that people enjoy in constant association. Dr. Bouwsma, member of the philosophy department of the university and instructor of a course in aesthetics, will probably explore not only what people like in art, but the "whys" of their likes and dislikes. At the conclusion of the symposium, an opportunity will be given to members of the audience to ask questions or express opinions.

When kidneys are clogged they become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent.

The right safe harmless and inexpensive way to stop this trouble and restore healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35-cent box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—you won't be disappointed.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic. Remember also that other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble are backache, leg cramps, puffy eyes, moist palms and nervousness.—Advertisement.

KruGon Renewed Mr. Playter's Health Even At Age Of 80

In Such A Weakened Condition Could Not Fully Recover From "Flu"; Many Complications Developed; Thought Case Was Hopeless; KruGon Did The Seeming Miraculous For Him

"I was never so much surprised as at the benefit I received from KruGon in such a short time and for a person of my age," said Mr. Wm. L. Playter, a well known and highly respected local gentleman, 80 years of age, and who lives at 1965 Vine St., in a recent statement reaching the Raymond Bauer Drug Co., N and 13th St., Lincoln:

"I had been in very bad health for twenty years and after taking the 'flu' it seemed I could never quite recover from its effects. I was terribly constipated causing my stomach and kidneys to become disordered. Nothing that I could eat agreed with me but rather attacks of indigestion and gas was sure to follow each meal. My kidneys caused endless trouble because of their too frequent action. It was next to impossible for me to get any sleep or rest thus making my discomfort and suffering almost continual until I was tired and draggy. Then I began to hear so much praise on every hand for this wonderful laxative tonic remedy and decided to give it a trial myself. KruGon is a safe and excellent medicine for any ailing person to use and I most heartily endorse it to suffering humanity.

"KruGon is actually the first medicine that I ever found to do what was claimed for it," continued Mr. Playter. "It took only two boxes to convince me of KruGon's true merit. I am now happy and rejoicing in new-found health. My entire system has been regulated and I now eat and sleep fine without the former distress and disturbances so common to me. It is much easier for me to get about and I really enjoy living now since my health has been returned. KruGon's action is very dependable and well worthy of all its merits."

KruGon is sold by the Raymond Bauer Drug Co., N and 13th St., this city, and by all the leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Dedicated to the people of Nebraska and to the development of the sources of the state."—Sept. 7, 1867.

There is no place like Nebraska"

The relative merits of pink and green elephants came in for debate in a New York court case, and an expert testified that the green" variety is the most valuable. The case was not one of a confirmed alcoholic, but a tax suit in which a circus was the defendant and the elephants' valuation had a bearing on the issues.

Railroads are cutting expenses since the unsatisfactory rate increase was announced. The Illinois Central is making an effort to save five days a month in each employe's time for the next two months, possibly for a longer time. Generally the western roads will try to clip expenditures to a figure that will be less than their incomes. Necessity appears to dictate this move. Not only will employes suffer loss of income. The public will feel the effect of cuts that will be made.

The Massachusetts assembly does not seem to have anything to do that concerns only Massachusetts. One day it considers a resolution demanding the dismissal of Secy. Hull. On the next it battles valiantly over the question of who invented the steamboat. A contest seems to have developed between Robert Fulton and John Fitch, both long since deceased, and the Massachusetts legislature has taken upon itself the problem of deciding the winner, according to the victory to Fitch, a Massachusetts man.

Just how far the administration has departed from the Jeffersonian democracy about which much of the glory of that party in past years has clustered may be gleaned from this extract from Jefferson's writings that is going the rounds: "If we are told from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we shall soon want bread." An utterance of that kind made today would be regarded by the democratic party as now constituted as the worst sort of heresy. Its slogan now is that unless we are told from Washington when to sow and when to reap there will be too much bread.

The kidnaping of Charles S. Ross, Chicago manufacturer, is approaching its final stages. The man accused of the crime has been found guilty and the death penalty has been recommended. The crime took place last September. The victim was killed and months later the accused man was finally tracked down and arrested. A confederate in the crime lost his life in a fight with the kidnaper at the time of Ross' death. The whole affair was a most unhappy crime, engineered by a man of doubtful sanity. Unfortunately there is little or no protection from the criminally insane until after they have seriously offended society.

Lithuania is a most uneasy nation. It is small. It is unable to defend itself. And at the same time it is surrounded by bitter enemies. Lithuania has been at odds with Poland for many years and is not on good terms with Germany. These circumstances worried no one for a long time. Lithuania, like other small European countries, felt that if Germany or any other of the bullying nations should bother it, England, France or some other world power would protest. Recent events have indicated that England and France will do nothing. If Poland decides to annex Lithuania, under present conditions, there would be no protest. No wonder the Lithuanians are uneasy.

With congress in a virtual stalemate, making little or no progress, and the chances of progress dimming with the approach of summer, congressmen still offer bills with some vague hope of their passage. Some of them are exceedingly foolish. Senator Wheeler, for instance, would appropriate $5,000 to enable the national park service to distribute material to newspapers to reproduce pictures of scenes in the outdoor playgrounds when the newspapers would willingly obtain this material themselves, asking only the co-operation of park officials. Government publicity efforts are largely wasted. This $5,000 appropriation would probably accomplish nothing except to provide more money for park department spending.

FEDERAL PUBLICITY.

The other day there came to this office a press release from the office of Federal Emergency Administration Project Engineer K. Sewell Wingfield. It was in the form of a chatty letter from Gerald Miller to Mr. Winfield. It was addressed to "Dear Sewell." It was made up of observations of Mr. Miller. One gathers from the letter that he has been traveling over the state talking to people. In case you don't know Mr. Miller it might be well to say that he is one of Mr. Wingfield's assistants.

The letter speaks of a previous communication to Mr. Wingfield from Mr. Miller and indicates that that communication was written "several dust storms ago." The matter of seepage from reservoirs and canals is spoken of as bothering a great many farmers. "There has been evidence of seepage in the Columbus area," and Mr. Miller says cautiously that "there is some evidence (but nothing definite) in the Sutherland district; and there is no reason to believe that there will not be equal evidence of seepage in the Tri-County district." Mr. Wingfield finds the question of seepage very complex. He says it has to do with "so called" leaks in canals and reservoirs with underground flow and half a dozen other factors which are most controversial "largely because they are unproven."

Mr. Miller talked with a small town merchant near Hastings. The merchant had done a better business in the early thirties than he has in more recent years. This man stressed the need for irrigation, but he objected to an increase in electric rates. To him, Mr. Miller regrets to say, electric power meant nothing. It was only an evil. He could not feature it as a part of irrigation equipment. Mr. Miller says that a few fractions of a penny per kilowatt hour more than this merchant was now paying was an evil. Mr. Miller concludes that "for the first few years I suppose power in these small communities might cost slightly more. I say I suppose. I am no economist and do not speak with authority. But what if it does?" Mr. Miller reports that on leaving the small town merchant he was "just a trifle sorry about everything." He had had no opportunity "to settle those questions in the grocery store."

By degrees government agencies are beginning to admit what the power experts have been telling us for a long time. There will be trouble from operation of our power and irrigation projects. The ground is being prepared for an increase in electric rates.

SELLING SPAIN OUT.

England has sold Spain out to the fascists. There was no justice in England's having the power to sell Spain short, in this manner, but the fact remained that England did have the power and has sold out democracy in Spain. Spanish democracy never expected much from England. While the English people are strongly in sympathy with the loyalist cause, the government of England, dominated by a band of fascist sympathizers known as the Cliveden group, among which are numbered the Astors, has never been really interested in the loyalist cause. The British government wants to deal with Italy and Germany, rather than the Spanish people, for Spain's resources.

The French, on the other hand, have been strongly in sympathy with the loyalist cause in Spain and have wanted to extend aid. Some aid has been given surreptitiously, but nothing of any consequence. Following the recent revival of the drive on the loyalist territory, France, uneasy at the thought of German neighbors to the southwest as well as the east, considered taking active part.

But first of all, France wants to preserve communications with her colonies in Africa. It was considered necessary, to do so, that the aid of Britain in the Mediterranean be promised. England tendered a promise of that aid if France promised to keep hands off Spain.

In other words, England has demanded that Spain be left to Mussolini, Hitler and Franco without protest from France. England will not say a word on its own account.

That this may be a short sighted policy should seem quite apparent. Every bit of strength Germany and Italy gain may someday be used against the English. Yet the English seem to have no fears and actually aid these counties in increasing their strength. England seems to feel that by giving Spain to Germany, a gift which it has no legal or moral right to bestow, it can curb the German appetite for colonies and keep Germany's grasping hands from reaching out for something that now bears the British label.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL.

Some newspaper readers were a bit puzzled by a newspaper dispatch from "Kingsley, Neb.," appearing in Nebraska papers the other date. Only the most up-to-date geographers placed it. Kingsley is not in the Postal Guide. It does not show on recent maps. There was argument. Some assumed an error had been made. Kingsley is the construction camp at the Kingsley dam, Tri-County development on the North Platte river. It is almost directly north of Ogallala on the North Platte river. It is a bustling little community and will continue to be such until the Kingsley dam is complete.

Most people know about the dam now under construction, the second largest earth built dam in the world. It is a great ridge of dirt, a small mountain that will require about three years to construct, across the valley of the North Platte a few miles above Keystone. Its purpose is to hold in storage a vast amount of water from the river's flow and to release it in a regulated stream for use farther down the river.

The governor of Kansas, by proclamation, fixes March 25 as Arbor Day and points to great need in that state for tree planting. In that state Arbor Day comes during conservation week, and the urge to replace what has been lost is being emphasized. Nebraska, too, needs trees and new plantings should be on a greater scale than ever before.

The services of more than one rate expert are apparently necessary to find out just how far truck rate regulation now extends in Nebraska. The commission has made so many amendments, suspensions and exemptions that the task would be most complicated, and the end of readjustment does not seem near. The tariff, as it appeared a month ago and was ordered put into effect, was the child of Commissioner Good, and for a time he resented the dismemberment. What has been done since then is in recognition of the fact that so many different rate and haul situations exist that any fixed set of rates that does not take them into account cannot stand.

The child welfare division of the state has asked the attorney general if the Lincoln school district is justified in refusing to furnish school privileges to lame or crippled children who are convalescing in the city. The director of the division appears to think that because the counties from which they come claim to be too poor to pay for the schooling of indigent children the school district of Lincoln should do so. The attorney general has replied that free school privileges cannot be demanded under such circumstances, but that there is no law to prevent the city from granting it to them if it wishes to do so.

A Lincoln man asks: Shouldn't the new truck cutoff be marked where it enters O street west of the viaduct? This man reports that going west the other evening and facing a street of incoming cars he was suddenly startled to see one veer from the line and head straight toward him in his lane. Thinking someone had been tipping the bottle a bit strongly previous to attempting to drive he was looking for a place to take to the ditch. The car whizzed in front of him even as he attempted to turn out to avoid it and continued off northeast. He "discovered" then for the first time, the new cutoff. Supposing he had turned further out to leave the lane for the usurper or had been going faster than the other man estimated?

The Central City Nonpareil says that the plan to force the private power companies to sell out to the government is inspired by a desire to save Senator Norris' face, and after declaring the three public power projects to be failures, gives as its opinion that the cost will be saddled, thru rates, on the backs of electricity users. It adds: "Rates will be charged to pay a profit on the whole setup, and Nebraska's hope of becoming an industrial state will go glimmering. How could we interest manufacturers to come here, even without penalizing state taxes, if every month electric users would have to pay for the three dead horses Norris bought?

FOOTNOTES.

"To the charge that senate bill No. 3,331, for the reorganization of the executive department of the government, would, as it stands, convert the presidential office into a dictatorship, new deal senators thus far have replied only, 'The president can be trusted,' says the Chicago News. "It may yet be necessary to examine critically, in the light of the record, that blanket affirmation of faith. For the moment, however, it will suffice to underline the declaration of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat from Montana, who told the senate the passage of the bill would be an admission to the world 'that the congress of the United States, overwhelmingly democratic in the house and in the senate, is incompetent to function.' And many may recall, as the senator did, in verbal duel with Senator Byrnes, the sponsor of the reorganization bill, the occasion when Mr. Roosevelt was trying to pack the supreme court.

"It would seem inconceivable that congress should make the self-immolating surrender which is contemplated in the Byrnes bill. The destruction of the fundamental principle of checks and balances, and the substitution of virtual absolution on the part of the executive branch of government, must presently appear to members of congress, irrespective of party, a revolutionary procedure, not to be justified even in the name of efficiency by blind trust in Franklin Delano Roosevelt or any other one man power.

"But even should the spirit of a real American democracy reassert itself, as we may hopefully expect, and so amend the bill as to retain in congress effective power to function in accord with the traditional and constitutional American system, there would remain an objection to the bill that, at such a time as this, should ensure its defeat. Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia democrat, in a recent statement declared the passage of the bill would increase the expenses of the federal government by huge sums—'perhaps as much as hundreds of millions of dollars annually.'

"Private enterprise in the United States, from the household to the factory, has been forced by the highest tax bills in history to 'reorganize' for retrenchment and economy. But the Byrnes bill has no line or syllable directed toward the reduction of government expenditures. From the president down, its sponsors make no claim that the enormously mounting costs of government will be curbed or lowered by its passage. They argue for efficiency, but the bill shows that in their minds 'efficiency' and the spending of more money are synonymous terms. It eliminates no outlets; it creates new reservoirs, for which new intakes will have to be created. The bill comes, says Senator Byrd, 'to freeze the cost of the federal government at a minimum of eight billion dollars a year, as compared with three billion in the most prosperous era of all history of this nation—between 1920 and 1930.'

"'A minimum of eight billion dollars!' What may the maximum become? The sky is the limit. 'The bill,' asserts this democratic senator, 'blasts the last hope' of balancing the budget.' And the country has been trusting the president to do that!"

DR. BRADY'S HEALTH TALK.

Thru The Painter's Hands.

Curious contribution featured in recent issue of the Journal A.M.A., purports to furnish "proof" that various volatile oils, potent alkaloids such as morphine, strychnine, quinine, atropine, pilocarpine, cocaine, and nicotine are absorbed thru the unbroken skin. The contribution fails to reveal just what the evidence of "proof" is—probably the dimwit medical profession will accept the thing as "proved" on the mere say-so of the Pooh-Bah and his yes-men. So far as the article indicates, the "proof" consists in the fact that the experimenter was able to find some of the substances mentioned present in the urine after they had been applied to the skin of the test animal.

We have known for many years that certain volatile substances are readily demonstrated in the urine after the substance, say iodin, has been applied to the skin. But that is by no means good evidence that the substance has been absorbed thru the skin. We have known for many years that it is not difficult to poison a person with mercury by applying mercury ointment to the skin in considerable excess and not washing it away for a day or two. Neither is that proof that mercury is absorbed thru the skin. In fact intelligent physicians have long recognized that the systemic effects in such instances are due to inhalation of the iodin or the mercury which is volatilized by friction and by the heat of the body.

Eastern reader had lead poisoning last summer. His doctor said he was poisoned by lead paint which he absorbed thru his hands and that had he worn gloves he would not have been poisoned. The patient, a painter by trade, says he had inhaled a good deal of dust while scraping old paint from houses preparatory to repainting. The physician in this instance is in a sad minority. All authorities now agree that lead poisoning in industry is almost entirely from inhalation of lead fumes or lead dust—perhaps some of the dust is swallowed in the saliva, but the poisoning is chiefly from lead entering thru the respiratory mucous membrane.

However, the physician who assures the painter that wearing gloves would protect him against the hazard of chronic lead poisoning may find comfort in the apparent determination of the Great Pooh-Bah to keep the human hide permeable, if only to make a monkey out of me. Monkey-like, I'm still willing to stake everything on a fair, scientifically controlled test on my own skin if anybody of standing has the courage to accept the challenge.

DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON.—The doctrine that workers may take the law into their own hands and engage in acts of violence in a strike and yet find their jobs protected by the national labor relations board is so palpably subversive of law and order that it is profoundly disappointing to discover an agency of the government of the United States defending such a practice.

The labor board found itself in a delicate legal position in the Fansteel case. The employes had been using violence. They had engaged in a sitdown strike and had not only defied an injunction, but had resisted the local officers of the law. The employer, on the other hand, had interfefed with collective bargaining, according to the findings of the board, and therefore a federal law had been violated.

What should the board do? It did not, of course, wish to condone the violation of a federal law. So it stuck to the proposition that, even if state laws had been violated, the ruling must be against the employer who was guilty no matter what the employes had done.

No quarrel could be found with this reasoning if the decision were confined to an order to the employer to refrain from future interference with the collective bargaining processes. But the labor board went beyond any such judgment. It insisted that sitdown strikers, including those who had confessedly participated in damaging property of the employer, should be put back to work.

The labor board thus condoned violence not only by failing to condemn the actions of the workers who had attacked deputies and damaged company property, but by insisting that a worker who has sufficient provocation to commit an illegal act while on a strike is not in any different status than the law abiding worker. If anything is calculated to encourage what virtually amounts to a lynch law doctrine, it is this ruling of the labor board. The decision says in part:

"Some of the missiles thrown by the men were intended for the purpose of breaking the windows; others were undeniably aimed at the attacking deputies. While the equipment was damaged by this barrage, as well as by the deputies' bombs, there is no evidence that any malicious sabotage of equipment took place"

From this it will be inferred that a sitdown strike and acts of violence are all right if there is no "sabotage of equipment" and that the breaking of windows on employers' property is also all right provided not too many of them are broken or too much damage is not done which could be construed as "malicious sabotage."

This is a strange line of thought for the labor board to take since it is tantamount to condoning an incendiary who sets fire to a building and says: "What difference does it make, only a few windows were broken—and besides it was all covered by insurance anyway."

It is true the employer in this case put back to work of his own initiative some of the sitdown strikers, so he was in a sense discriminating when he failed to take them all back. But the employer evidently felt justified in refusing to continue an employer-employe relationship with those workers who he found were guilty of injuring his property. If he accepted some who he felt had been unduly influenced by others or had not participated in acts of violence even tho members of the striking unit, the employer was exercising a right to hire and fire privilege which had nothing to do with his attitude toward unionism at all.

Indeed, had the board wished, it could have ruled just the other way by accepting the fact of reinstatement of certain of the sitdown strikers as convincing evidence that the employer was not discriminating against union workers, but merely against those who had defied the laws of the state of Illinois by throwing missiles at the windows and damaging company property.

A sitdown strike is a violation of state law because it is an act of trespass. Workers who engage in it become lawbreakers and it is extremely doubtful if the supreme court of the United States will ever order an employer to reinstate workers who have been guilty of violating the laws of the state. In this instance, too, an injunction was violated.

Not long ago, the National Association of Manufacturers declared in their labor platform that employers should not be required to deal with unions or with workers who engage in unlawful acts and this correspondent took the position that this was a faulty proposal because employers would then be setting themselves up as judges of what was or was not an unlawful act by workers. My thought was that the federal and state governments are able now to exclude union leaders or followers who engaged in violence from the benefits of any employment relationship, but that the illegality itself has to be determined by governmental agencies and not by employers.

Here is a case, however, in which the national labor relations board officially acknowledges that there have been unlawful acts, but it insists nevertheless that an employer must be compelled to furnish employment to those who have become lawless. Certainly the labor board has handed on a platter to the National Association of Manufacturers the best ammunition it has ever had for breaking down the labor board and the Wagner act, too. It is from the viewpoint of friends of the collective bargaining law as well as its enemies that this latest decision is regrettable. The higher courts are undoubtedly going to be asked to review it.

A man, evidently a late arrival to Marie's party, was coming across the lighted drive. There was something familiar about him. Too late, Velma realized who he was. He delibefately paused before her.

"Good evening, Miss Wilkins," said Tom Orville, gravely searching her white face.

"How—how do you do," she finally managed to utter.

"Not so good—after the wilful neglect of a certain beautiful young woman," he said quickly, taking a step toward her.

So he had been hurt because she had not acknowledged his nod across a hotel dining room! What could he expect after snubbing her so perfectly on that bus trip?

But now she had no control over her misbehaving heart. She would be willing to humble her pride unmercifully if she could only keep him near her. "I'm—sorry," she said, low.

He suddenly cupped her face in his hands, forcing her to look squarely up to his hazel eyes. "Velma—why didn't you answer my note?"

"Your—note?"

The moon lit her quivering face.

"Yes—the note I left with the clerk at the inn. I've waited—and hoped—but no reply came. Apparently, you don't care to be friends."

"Yes, yes, I do!" she said, with evident sincerity. "But I didn't receive any note! I would have replied, I would have—"

"Velma! That fool clerk forgot to give it to you! Great Scott! That explains everything! I wrote you that Mr. Milligan, president of the Carryville Flour Mill, unexpectedly came for me. I wanted to finish the trip with you, but when the boss speaks, you know how it is."

"Yes," she said faintly.

Her brown eyes were dewy, her cheeks faintly flushed. Bravely now, she met his gaze of brief tenderness. She thought he was going to kiss her, but his hands dropped from her face.

Saxophones sobbed, cellos and violins moaned and wailed to the accompaniment of her fluttering heart. Couples began strolling out to the veranda, laughing, flirting

Tom Orville tucked an arm thru hers and led her across the lantern lighted lawn. They wandered down a steep narrow path, far from the other guests. They sat down on an old stump and his arm went around her so naturally that it seemed to belong there. His tobacco scented shoulder was intoxicating. Hesitantly, her arms went around his neck.

She suddenly sat erect, remembering something. "There was a girl—a pretty girl—with you that night at the hotel," she said.

He laughed. "I see. That's why you ignored me. You thought I'd run away with another woman. Why, darling, that was Adele, Mr. Milligan's daughter. She's a stunning girl and I like her—but she's mad about a chum of mine in California."

Velma felt confused and ridiculous, yet she was seething with emotional ecstasy. Before she could put any part of this complexity into words, he spoke again. "I've been miserable over you, darling. I thought—I'd lost you—that you didn't care. Then I saw you with that man and—"

It was her turn to laugh. "That was only Mr. Sweeney—Kil Sweene—who took pity on me when I missed the bus." Then she explained about her nap in the rose arbor.

He sighed with relief. "If I'd been along to take care of you, it never would have happened. But now that we've both explained, we can go on from here. I have no lost love, no desire for any but—one love. Have you, dear?"

Her heart was soaring with the suffocating sweetness of his nearness. Her pulses sang, "I love him! I've always loved him! This is the biggest thing that ever happened to me!"

She turned to him and said soberly, "Love is all I'll ever want, Tom. Just—one love."

"My darling—how I love you!"

She found herself in his arms again, his kisses rained on her eyelids, her mouth. For a long time she lay there, filled with the flame of the first real love she had ever given any man.

He released her at last. She sat pinning in disordered curls that were crazily incongruous with her evening frock.

Suddenly a curious thought assailed her. "But, Tom," she said, "I'm no longer the Velma Wilkins!"

"I don't understand. You aren't famous, are you?"

"I—I used to be."

"Are you an actress—or what?"

"No. But I was as good a news feature as any actress ever was. Truthfully, you never heard of me?"

"Darling—I'm ashamed to admit it—I never did. If it's something you'd rather forget—let's bury it and—."

Her silvery laughter echoed thru the nearby grove. "Oh, you're precious, Tom! You never heard of Velma Wilkins of Chicago, Paris, London and New York? Where have you been these many years?"

"Born in Iowa, had the usual early schooling, attended college—and later, worked in a flour mill near Chicago. That's a history of my 24 years in a nutshell. Think of it, darling—I was so near you and didn't know you existed. Now, you're going to marry me, aren't you, Velma?"

"Why—why I think so, Tom. But you must let me explain—."

"Why bother? All I know and care is—I love you, love you—and we'll be married just as soon as I'm sure I'm making good on this new job."

CHAPTER SEVEN.

The following morning in Marie Clark's dressing room she and Velma were discussing the high lights of last night's party. In the midst of it, Marie said in a reproving tone, "Velma, dear—aren't you overdoing your—your acquaintance with Kil Sweeney?"

Velma's wide brown eyes held a spark of something akin to fear. She glanced at Marie's reflection in the mirror above her rose taffeta dressing table. Marie, rubbing face cream into her smooth cheeks, actually looked worried.

"If you mean I even like the man, you're mistaken. I—I think I hate him!" declared Velma vehemently.

"That was the only flaw in our party—Janet saying what she did to Louise."

"Oh," limply responded Velma. "You mean—"

"Of course, my dear, I knew there was no truth in it. I told Louise it was a hallucination of that woman's jealous mind! You in Kil Sweeney's arms!"

"But I was," said Velma bitterly.

Marie wheeled about on the bench with, "Velma! What do you mean? What are you saying? You couldn't, couldn't—"

"The man was holding me fast—against my will, of course—when Janet appeared. I didn't stop to explain to her then—she wouldn't have believed anything I said, she was so angry. I thought I could see her later and straighten it out."

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Mary Gordon.

Dear Mary Gordon: This is my debut into the learned society of contributors to Mary Gordon's column. I, therefore, enter with a great deal of fear and trepidation, and beg the indulgence of the most gentle reader. It is not my desire to bray loudly, learnedly, nor at great length. I shall attempt to state my questions simply and briefly. Here goes:

By what real right may you, who have so generously and freely committed yourselves, determine what constitutes the "good life," "right and wrong," "moral behavior," et cetera? By what criteria do you judge the evils (?) of smoking, dancing, drinking, "necking," and other socalled banes of human social existence? By whose authority do you base your claims and statements as to the qualifications of an "ideal" boy or girl?

You, to whom these questions refer, are you drawing your conclusions from "hearsay" evidence, personal experience, common gossip, individual thinking, or the opinions of friends and family? If so, the results may be tabulated as simply subjective data, and not worth one iota of the printer's ink.

In my humble opinion, and mark you, this is my opinion and is so stated, each and everyone of you who condemn the pleasures of others—those diversions by which some seek Elysium—(I'd better repeat, some may be lost in the wilds of the parenthical phrases). All of you who condemn others for indulging in their own individual delectation are merely poor misled, bigoted, intolerant, fanatical, prejudiced, narrow, and obstinate creatures stuffed with the overwhelming belief that "I and others who think as I do are right." These misled individuals have nothing but a feeling of disgust and pity for the uninformed masses for being the fools that they are.

The wisest of all was he that said, "Live, and let live."

Picture me slinking from the wrath of those I have betrayed, for I am but a bewildered—Freshman.

A. If you know all those adjectives and are only a freshman what will be your vocabulary by the time you are a senior?

Dear Mary Gordon: Do any of your readers remember the words of "The Song I Love" which enjoyed a run of radio popularity about nine years ago in 1928-29? It ran something as follows, "Have you forgotten all that I remember?" and "The way I cry when I hear the song I love?"—Lincoln Reader.

Club Codfish Balls.

Cook enough salt codfish to make 1½ cupfuls, when finely flaked. While fish is still hot, add 3 cups of hot creamy mashed potatoes which have been whipped up with butter, seasoning and a little hot milk. Toss lightly together, but do not pack down. Add one egg, well beaten, pepper to taste and beat until the mixture is light and fluffy. Mold into small balls, handling them very lightly. Before frying, roll the balls in sifted flour. Fry in deep hot fat (370 degrees F.) until a golden brown. Remove to brown paper to drain. Arrange on a hot platter, garnish with sprigs of parsley and lemon quarters and serve at once.

HUGHES SAYS CRISIS WEAKENING MARKETS

Explains Why Europe Sells to Get Dollar and Effect Here.

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES.

Copyright by the NANA (The Lincoln Journal and other newspapers).

NEW YORK.—In every great crisis, national or international, the normal impulse of capital is to seek liquidity.

Securities are sold regardless of their intrinsic merit, outstanding commitments are retired at a loss if necessary, currencies of doubtful status are exchanged for others apparently more secure whenever that is possible, and all the capitalist's affairs are put in shape to weather the storm. That is what is going on in Europe today and its repercussions are felt in America.

It is not an illogical procedure. One can always reacquire securities when the clouds lift. If more has to be paid for them, it is cheap insurance. That is the way the capitalistic mind acts. So when the war threat becomes more menacing, the franc, the guilder, the pound sterling and all the rest are turned into dollars and the dollars held intact on this side. If the crisis passes, the refugee capital is repatriated and world markets return to normal. That phase is not yet in evidence.

The greater the alarm, the greater the haste to liquidate and the more costly the insurance, for liquidation can only be effected when there are buyers to unload upon. As far as the currencies go, the various stabilization funds ease the way. They cannot indefinitely combat a trend, but they can hold it within limits for the time being. This week has witnessed a headlong rush to acquire dollars, with a rapid depreciation of other currency units, but with intermediate rallies, as for example in the dollar value of the French franc, resulting from these steadying operations of the control funds.

ARRESTED IN STRANGLINGS

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP). Assistant Detective Chief Patrick J. Hoar announced Wednesday night the arrest of Peter Burton, 39, wanted in Detroit for questioning in connection with the strangling of two women Hoar said Burton had been picked up in a rooming house.

Detroit police broadcast an alarm for Burton after Mrs. Monica Janonis, 40, beauty shop operator, and Mrs. Ursula Jakubowski, 53, landlady, were found strangled to death in their beds at a Detroit rooming house Tuesday. Burton, police said, has been Mrs. Janonis' second husband. In preliminary questioning Burton denied any knowledge of the two murders and said he had been in Buffalo the past two days.

GREEN ELEPHANTS ARE BEST

Zoologist Awakens Jury in Ringling Tax Suit.

NEW YORK. (AP). A procession of elephants—the theoretical kind—roused 12 jurors out of their lethargy in federal court Wednesday.

Testifying as an expert, Dr. Edward H. Bean, director of the Chicago zoological park, described the lumbering beasts in all their obscure idosyncracies and gave assurance that "green" elephants, not pink, are the most valuable.

Dr. Bean testified for the government in a 3 million dollar federal income tax suit against John M. Kelly, general counsel for the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey circus, and others.

For weeks, each side has been hurling statistics at the other, and the zoologist's discourse on elephant lore appeared to be a welcome diversion for the jury.

GRAZING RULES LAID DOWN

Taylor Act Provisions May Solve Problem.

WASHINGTON. (AP). The federal government laid down a new set of rules Wednesday for 120 million acres of public range. They will be administered by the division of grazing by authority of the Taylor grazing act.

Officials said they believed the new regulations, when finally put into effect, would mark the beginning of "a just and permanent solution of the range problem."

Generally the regulations provide for the grazing of approximately 10 million head of livestock on the federal range on a term permit basis designed to prevent over grazing.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Both exterior and interior treatment are striking in appearance and the Barker's new store is as smart as any eastern shop.

Jane Withers, Back From $5,000 a Week for Personal Appearance, Ready to Start Film Work Again

BY SHEILAH GRAHAM.

Copyright 1938 by NANA, (The Lincoln Journal and other newspapers).

HOLLYWOOD.—Conversation piece—with the mother of Jane Withers, box office money maker No. 6...'It (the just concluded personal appearance tour) was like a beautiful vacation for us. Jane worked only 40 minutes a day (doing impersonations of famous movie children). And she was paid $5,000 a week. Her new picture contract for two straight years gives her $2,500 a week. (The same contract pays Mrs. Withers $200 weekly.) She makes lots of money from indorsements—from one alone she gets $25,000 a year. As you know, she's had many offers of radio work—one for $75,000 for 26 weeks' work and appearances with Charlie McCarthy. She was wild to do it. But the studio would not allow her to go on the air. (Ah well, you can't have everything.)

Jane Withers

"On the whole, we are both very happy. Only Jane sometimes gets tired of the good-little-bad parts she plays on the screen. The other day she said, 'Gee, Mom, I wish I could be a meanie again.' (The first and last time was in "Bright Eyes," with Shirley Temple.) Sure, she's friends with Shirley (in answer to my question). They say 'hello' to each other when they meet on the set. (Only they don't often meet on the set.)

"Jane's a wonderful child. All she wants to do is work. Yes, she sees her pictures, but she doesn't realize she's the central character. She never talks 'shop' at home (a four acre, ten room ranch). Jane loves Hollywood. She was born in Atlanta, Ga., but I brought her here when she was 6—that was five years ago. She'll stay here to enroll at U. C. L. A.—She is the mascot of the football team.

"In spite of her work, Jane leads a normal life. She goes to bed at 8 o'clock when she is working. At 9, when she's not. But every day of the year she gets up at 6—to feed her animals. (Her menagerie consists of Bingo and Red Fox—horses; Al, Harry and Jimmy Ritz, kittens; 8 turtles, 3 baby alligators, 24 white Leghorn chickens, 12 turkeys, 2 Chinese hens, Charlie, the rooster, 6 bantams, Donald and Dotty Duck, 7 frogs and 6 dogs—Phew!—There are also 300 dolls.)

"She eats good, healthful food, goes to Sunday school, one picture show a week, plays the piano, loves Dick Tracy and 'The Wizard of Oz,' spends Saturdays and Sundays and vacations at our cabin at Lake Arrowhead. She's a very healthy child—she didn't feel so good when something fell on her in 'Pepper'—she was out cold for 35 minutes—and in 'Can This Be Dixie?' Both times the director wanted to send her home, but you couldn't get her to leave the set. Jane is simply crazy about picture work—chiefly because, as she herself says, 'You can do things you can't get away with at home.'

"Her favorite stars are Alice Faye and Stuart Erwin. She thinks Una Merkel is wonderful and likes Mickey Rooney and Deanna Durbin. (Mrs. Withers, who wanted to be an actress herself, but never made the grade, was determined that her unborn baby should be a girl, and an actress. When Jane was three, she was past mistress of ballet, tap and character dancing, and could impersonate anyone you named. In October, 1934, Mrs. Withers took Jane to see David Butler, who was looking for a brat to play opposite Shirley Temple. The director told Mrs. Withers to stand by for a call. "I've been standing by for two years," that lady told him bitterly. "And I can't get Jane a chance to show what she can do." At this cue, Jane leapt into her impersonations. Two minutes later the moppet was signed.)

"She's kept her head thru everything. When I told her she was No. 6 box office favorite this year, she replied, 'Gee, Mom, that's swell. Now may I go to a picture show?'"

KILLED AS CAR HITS BANK

Chris Ogard, Bridgeport, Is Dead, Two Others Hurt.

POTTER, Neb. (AP). Chris Ogard, Bridgeport farmer, was killed and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Dugger, pioneer Morrill county ranchers, suffered serious injuries in an automobile accident north of here. The three were returning to their homes south of Bridgeport from a farm sale. Ogard missed a turn and his car rammed full force into a high bank. The machine was demolished and Ogard killed instantly. He had lived in this section 30 years. Dugger suffered head and hip injuries and both of Mrs. Dugger's legs were fractured. They were taken to Bridgeport for treatment.

Sheriff W. W. Schulz and Co. Atty. P. J. Heaton investigated and said Ogard's neck was broken. Mrs. Ogard accompanied the group to a farm sale at Dix but remained in Potter for an Eastern Star meeting. The Duggers recently sold their possessions here and were preparing to move to Oregon.

RUMOR LETTER ON LEVINE

Father Denies Communication About Boy.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (UP). Reports that a New York City priest had received a letter supposedly from the kidnapers of 12 year old ePter Levine persisted despite the denials of the boy's father, Murray Levine. The letter was said to have contained a passage which read: "Peter Levine is O.K. Call off the cops."

NO TAX BUT SERVICE FEE

Government Pays $9.37 for Aid to Farmsteads.

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP). Richardson county will receive $80.37 from the federal government for "services rendered" in connection with the Falls City farmsteads, the board learned. It just so happens that $80.37 equals the taxes for 4.76 mills on the assessed valuation of the property of the farmstead and it just so happens that the county levy is 4.76 mills. The federal government, however, will not pay taxes but a bill appropriating funds for "services rendered" makes it up.

KILLS HER SIX CHILDREN

Center, Tex., Mother Unable to Provide for Them.

CENTER, Tex. (AP). A mother who told officers she was ill and unable to provide for her family killed six of her nine children at a lonely farm home, kissing each of them goodbye before and after shooting them as they slept. Dist. Atty. Wardlow Lane said he would file murder charges against Mrs. Lillie May Curtis, 38, who was under a five year suspended sentence for slaying her husband, Robert Curtis, 44, in 1936.

The children ranged in age from 5 to 13. Sheriff J. B. Sample was summoned by one of the older children, Travis, 16. The mother said he was spared "because he could take care of himself."

SCHOOL NOMINEES.

SHELTON, Neb.—Candidates nominated at the school caucus for members of the board of education were M. H. Lee, Mrs. Gladyce Haug, Galen Evans and L. J. Hallas. Two are to be elected. Mr. Lee is president of the board and Mrs. Haug secretary. Their present terms of office expire in June.

GRIDIRON SHOW AT UNI CLUB IS A HIT

Lincoln's More Prominent Citizens Were 'Deflated' Wednesday Night.

Once again the gridiron club of the University club lived up to its motto that no one is sacred or immune from the biting sarcasm of the annual show.

About the only consolation some of Lincoln's more prominent citizens found Wednesday night was that the darkened room hid their blushes of chagrin and embarrassment from their neighbors.

The annual show is strictly "off the record" as far as newsmen are concerned. The actors found delight in raking up incidents many would prefer to forget, and phases of Lincoln's civic, social and political life were reveiwed in detail.

Leo Soukup was chairman of the club for the annual show. Vance Traphagen was in charge of properties and John Champe was stage manager. That some of the actors momentarily "went up" in their lines was not unexpected and served to further increase the audience's delight in the presentation.

The guests at the dinner were met in the lobby of the Stuart building by guides who were dressed as circus clowns. The lobby was decorated to represent a circus tent. Jack Dodd and John Howell, Cornhusker football players, were the only ones outside the club to take part in the skits.

ABBOTT IS FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Arson by District Court Jury.

A district court jury late Wednesday evening found Ray Abbott, 25, guilty of arson. The trial was heard in Judge Chappell's court. During the afternoon the state put Police Chief Anderson, Neil Olson, deputy warden at the penitentiary, and Everett Rudisal, secretary at the police department, on the witness stand.

Abbott claimed he had signed a statement admitting guilt in connection with the attempted burning of a house at 1117 Furnace st., on Jan. 15, belonging to Mrs. E. J. Barnhill and claimed he had made the statement because of threats made by the police. Chief Anderson and Olson said there had been no threats made to get Abbott to confess.

Abbott at that time, witnesses for the state had testified, admitted setting two fires to the house, one downstairs and one in the attic and said that Calvin Merritt had induced him to do it and offered him $5 for the job. Wednesday Abbott not only repudiated the statement as to himself but also said that Merritt did not offer him $5 and had not asked him to set the house afire. Abbott testified that he had served a term in the state reformatory on a second degree murder charge in connection with the death of Arnold Warner found dead in a box car in the Lincoln yards. Abbott pleaded guilty in Fairbury to the charge.

TO HONOR W. J. BRYAN.

Dr. A. L. Weatherly will speak on "Bryan as a World Citizen" at the William Jennings Bryan birthday dinner Saturday evening at the Lincoln hotel. C. C. Sibert of the dinner committee also revealed Myron Bickel will discuss "Bryan as an Inspiration to Young People." William Ritchie of Omaha will be toastmaster. The program committee will meet Thursday night at the Lincoln to complete final arrangements. Sibert said Wednesday night early ticket sales indicated nearly 300 will attend the dinner.

ROAD PATROLMEN WIN RACE

Youthful Motorist No Match for Nebraska Cops.

SEWARD, Neb. (AP). Algernon Rice, youthful North Carolina motorist, and the Nebraska highway patrol indulged in a bit of a race Wednesday between Seward and Lincoln—and the patrol won.

Patrolmen said they clocked Rice at 65 miles an hour thru Seward. They gave chase, catching up with him three blocks from the Lincoln city limits.

Rice pleaded guilty before Police Magistrate U. H. Franklin to charges of speeding, reckless driving and failing to heed a stop sign. He was fined $25 on each charge, plus $8.40 in costs. He was ordered to jail, unable to pay the assessment.

O. D. TROMBLA IS ELECTED

New Head State Association of Mutual Insurance.

COLUMBUS, Neb. (AP). O. D. Trombla of Lincoln was elected president of the State Association of Mutual Insurance companies at the close of its 43rd annual convention here. He suceeds J. H. Curtis of Elgin.

O. D. TROMBLA.

Dan Hildebrand of Seward, president of the United States Livestock association, told delegates at the convention banquet "we have no patience with name callers, no matter who they are, in the present squabble between government and business."

"Business stands indicted and judged guilty without either fair trial or adequate proof."

OUTLINES OBLIGATION OF FINANCE COMPANY

Says Citizens Need to Learn Common Sense in Money Management.

NORTH PLATTE. (AP). Delegates to the annual convention of the Nebraska Association of Finance Companies here were told "the foremost social obligation of personal finance firms to teaching common sense in money management to the thousands of citizens with whom the business brings us in intimate contact."

The speaker was F. L. Thompson of Chicago, vice president of the Household Finance corporation. He said while it might appear a thrift doctrine would eventually end the small loan business, the likelihood of such an outcome is remote.

"We cannot overlook the fact American standards of living are higher today than those of any other people, and will probably be still higher in the future," he said. "The margin between earnings and spendings will materially increase."

State Senator Hall of Roseland told delegates they should recognize needs "of a more strict regulation of personal finance companies," and pointed out present regulations are 22 years old.

"This regulation is not suggested because of any irregularities in operation of your business but merely as a protection to yourself," he said. Secretary of State Swanson told the finance men the volume of their business increased 400 percent during the past years, while the number of licensed companies in the state increased but 47 percent.

ASK SALESWOMAN TO LEAVE

Had Been Soliciting Orders Here Several Days.

Lincoln's better business bureau investigated the sales policy of a group of soliciters Wednesday and as a result, the police asked the only available saleslady to leave town Acting upon inquires received by the bureau, investigators found that a crew of solicitors have been working in the city for the past week, taking orders for a product called "Sani-shield."

The solicitors represented themselves as being connected with the Paramount Products company of Hot Springs, Ark. and took orders for the product, as well as $1 or $1.50 down payment.

The tip upon which the bureau acted came from a lady who had given the solicitor a $1.50 deposit and had then written to the company. Her letter, however, came back from the Hot Springs postoffice with the notation that no such company could be found. Upon questioning at police headquarters, the solicitor said she was one of a number of people working over the country taking orders for the product. She refunded the money she had collected and agreed to leave town immediately, bureau officials said.

Four Japanese merchants were killed at Fangtze, a mail truck driver was shot at Weihsien, and frequent cutting of the Tsinan railroad has resulted in irregular service. Japanese, continuing their drive down the Tientsin-Pukow railway, claimed to have dominated the fortified section of walled Tenghsien in Shantung and said 40,000 Chinese defenders had retreated 16 miles south.

DISCUSSES SALESMANSHIP

Isadore Samuels Addresses Life Underwriters.

Attempting to inject what he termed "spizerinktum" into Lincoln life underwriters at a dinner of their association Wednesday evening, Isadore Samuels, Denver general agent of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, declared "lots of life sells life insurance." Mr. Samuels is enroute home from Richmond Va., where, as a trustee, he attended a meeting of the board of the national association.

Concentrating on sales hints, he advised his listeners to make their work their own "magnificent obsession."

"A man who loves his work can sell," he said, "because even a sick world still has money to spend. People are eager to invest. We'll find little resistence to something we ourselves are sold on."

Vice president of the Denver chamber of commerce, Mr. Samuels believes a salesman must make his prospects think. "But don't be obvious about it," he cautioned. "If a man knows that you are making him think, he'll hate you. Make him think his new ideas are results of his own initiative." He added that such a system will help a prospect feel he is buying rather than being sold.

About seventy, including wives, attended the dinner.

SETTLE ESTATE CASE.

Settlement of $500 with Carrie Bates, administratix of the estate of George Bates, by J. M. Rayfield and Charles Elliott was approved by County Judge Reid Wednesday. Bates was injured in an accident on West O st. in 1936 in a collision between a truck belonging to Rayfield and a car driven by Bates.

JURY SAYS SEADLUND MUST DIE FOR CRIME

Sets Extreme Penalty for Slayer of Wealthy Chicago Manufacturer.

CHICAGO. (AP). A federal court jury Wednesday night condemned John Henry Seadlund to die in the electric chair for the $50,000 ransom kidnaping of Charles S. Ross, Chicago manufacturer.

The jury answered "yes" to the question "do you the jury recommend that the defendant, John Henry Seadlund, alias Peter Anders, be punished by death?"

The case was given to the jury at 4:45 p. m. (cst). They reached their verdict at 6:15 p. m. It was announced 20 minutes later after Judge John P. Barnes, attorneys and Seadlund, handcuffed to two guards, arrived in court.

Counsel for Seadlund immediately moved for a new trial and Judge Barnest set Saturday at 9 a. m. for a hearing on the motion.

Seadlund showed no emotion as the jury announced its finding. He stared intently at the jurors as they were polled.

Under federal law the death penalty will be imposed in the manner used in the state where a defendant is condemned. Illinois uses the electric chair.

STUDENTS IN RECITAL.

Advanced students in the University of Nebraska school of music provided the music at the weekly convocation in the Temple theater Wednesday afternoon. Eight members of the faculty, teachers of both voice and instrumental music, were represented by 12 pupils.

The program was one of wide variety, going from Beethoven and Handel to such less well known composers as Ilgenfritz and Olive Dungan. Despite its position at the beginning, the performance of the string ensemble remains in the memory as outstanding. The ensemble's music was rich in tone exceptionally well balanced. Of the other young musicians, some were excellent, some not so far advanced, but all provided moments of beauty. The program:

Beethoven: Op. 29, allegro moderato, first violin, Henry Brahinsky; second violin, Margaret Porter; first violin, Jane Welch; second violin, Gladys Swift; cello, Ruth Sibley. (Mr. Wismnow).

Handel, Honor and Arms, from "Samson," Woodrow Robinson, (Mrs. Polley).

Beethoven: Sonata Op. 13, grave, allegro con brio, Virginia Tookey, (Miss Wagner).

Haydn: Sonata, A flat, allegro moderato, Naomi Mandenhall, (Mr. Schmidt).

Puccini: In quella trine morbidi, from "Manon Lescaut," Olive Dungan; Autumn, Louise Stapleton, (Mr. Tempel).

Chopin: Scherzo in B minor, Perry Beach, (Mr. Chenoweth).

Gounod: Arlette, from "Mireille;" Ilgenfritz, As We Part, Alice Redwood, (Mrs. Gutzmer).

HEAR MISSIONARIES.

They will return to India immediately at the close of the school year.

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP). Approximately 50 directors attended a meeting here, representing towns from Blair to Ogallala. C. W. WANTS OPERATE RACERS

Ed J. Newman has filed application with the city clerk, addressed to the council, asking permission to operate five miniature racing cars for child drivers at the southwest corner of 33rd and O. He specifies that the track will be 50 by 150 feet. He made similar request a year ago but by the time the council was in readiness to grant it the season was too late. There is no zoning problem since the corner is classified for local business. There is no ordinance designating license fee or occupation tax for this type of enterprise. Some years ago the council passed an ordinance assessing fees for miniature golf courses but these have passed from the picture. It is possible that if the Newman request is granted certain regulations will be imposed.

A. Z. A. SABBATH PLANS.

Plans for an A. Z. A. Sabbath day program in Tifereth Israel synagog March 25 were completed Wednesday night at a meeting of the fraternity in the Lincoln hotel. Edward Nelden, who has charge of the program, will give the oration. Leon Foaster will chant the service and Hy Polsky will talk. The event will be observed by the fraternity on an international scale. At the Wednesday night session, Sam Kirschenbaum was elected delegate to the district conference of the organization to be held in Des Moines. Morris Singer will be the alternate. Dwayne Kushner, acting president, was in charge.

OFFICERS STUDY.

YORK VOTERS FAVOR OWNING POWER PLANT

Revenue Bond Issues of $475,000 Gets Plurality of 282.

YORK, Neb. (AP). Voters here Wednesday approved by a plurality of 282 a $475,000 revenue bond issue for the purpose of acquiring a municipally owned light plant and distribution system. The unofficial complete returns showed 1,455 in favor of the bond issue and 1,173 against.

Interest in the proposal was high, but a record vote was not cast. The total was approximately 400 short of votes in a special election about four months ago.

Clerks said there are 165 mail and disabled ballots to be counted, but this will not affect the outcome of the election.

The bonds will be secured by earnings from the municipal system. An engineer's report fixed $475,000 as the maximum required for construction of a generating plant and distribution system, but it was pointed out expenditure of the sum will be necessary only if the council is unable to negotiate a suitable contract with the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company, or one of the hydro-electric districts for purchase of power. York is now being served by the Iowa-Nebraska company.

HIT BY CAR.

Oswald Craig, 33, 1440 P st., suffered minor injuries to his left ankle and knee when struck by an auto driven by R. A. Malone at 17th and O sts., late Wednesday evening. Malone told police that he was driving east on O st., and that Craig was walking south across the 17th st. intersection. He said that the light changed against Craig when he was about half way across and that he apparently did not see the car coming. He was knocked about 5 feet by the impact.

DIGEST IS BANKRUPT.

NEW YORK. (AP). The Literary Digest, nationally circulated weekly magazine, petitioned Wednesday for authority to reorganize under a section of the bankruptcy act, listing assets at $850,923 and liabilities at $1,492,056. The petition was signed by George F. Havell, president.

When the adoption was made formally in Surrogate James A. Foley's chambers Tuesday, the child became Mary Frances Griffin.

WILL BE AS "GOD WANTS"

Pope Foresees Change in Soviet Religious Situation.

VATICAN CITY. (UP). Forecasting the days in which the religious situation in Russia will be "as God wants," Pope Pius made a 20 minute address to the superior and pupils of the Russian college in Rome Wednesday. He said that the Russian people are engulfed in unhappiness and sorrows but the "day will come in which things will be as God wants them and not as men wanted and seem to continue to want them."

14 YEARS FOR SLAYING.

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP). A circuit court jury late Wednesday convicted Delora Wayne Montgomery, 16, of the murder of Martin Pearson, 82 year old recluse, and fixed his penalty at 14 years imprisonment. The jury deliberated almost five hours. The youth, apparently pleased with the finding, jumped up and clapped his attorney, Raphael Yalden, on the back.

DRILL DEEPEST HOLE.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP). The deepest hole ever drilled is still going down. It is Continental Oil company's wildcat well near Wasco, now down to 14,252 feet, almost the height of the loftiest mountain in the United States, 14,495-foot Mount Whitney.

Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey, played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think.

What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.

Marriage Meddlers

A Sequel to "Married Comrades"

By Adele Garrison

I KNOW my husband's voice so well that I immediately catch any unusual nuance in it, and I was sure that my imagination was not "working overtime", in his own parlance, when I decided that his tones were strained and nervous, although he was making an obvious effort to appear casual, even nonchalant.

"Well, old Dear! How goes the new abode?" he queried.

"Very well, indeed," I returned cordially.

"Did you and Mary sleep well or did you have indigestion after that feed? I was afraid afterward that it was too heavy a meal when you were both so fatigued."

"It was perfect," I assured him truthfully.

"And we slept like the well-known tops," I added an instant later, reflecting that it was not necessary to tell him about the sedative which was the sole reason for my getting to sleep after the hectic episode of the drunken woman demanding "Dicky Graham" immediately.

Everything Settled

"That's fine," he said heartily. "You're sure everything's all right and you're comfortably settled?"

"Every last article is hung on its own nail," I assured him, laughing.

"I can well believe that, knowing you," he retorted. "Sure there is nothing I can do for you?"

"Not a thing in the world," I assured him.

"Then I'll bid you a fond adieu," he said. "I'm busier than the famous one-armed watchman with the poison ivy—that's rhetorical—and, by the way, I won't be able to get over tonight. I'm working late at Brown's studio—you know that new novel of his I'm illustrating—and we're mulling it over together. We'll probably have something sent in; we won't have much time for eating. I've stalled the thing along too long now. So long, Darling! I'll try to see you tomorrow."

"Goodby," I answered, trying not to make the words mechanical, but as I hung up the receiver and turned to Mary, I caught upon her face a curious, speculative look which she quickly masked.

Let Veritzen Pay

"Well! What's the good word?" she asked with apparent carelessness. "Does Uncle Dicky blow us to a feed, or do we spend Papa Veritzen's mazuma?"

"We eat at your father-in-law's expense," I returned, smiling, "unless you will let me stand treat."

"Noth-ing do-ing!" Mary declaimed. "This is darling Pa-pa's pet idea; let him foot the bills! Not that he'd ever question them," she added justly.

"No, he is most lavish and generous," I said mechanically, and Mary dropped to a footstool at my side, clasping my knees with her arms in a gesture that went back to her lonely childhood.

"Auntie Madge, will you tell me something, and not think I'm asking from idle curiosity?" she queried.

Asks About Woman

"Of course, Child," I told her, but my mental thermometer dropped to my shoe soles, for I greatly feared I knew what she meant to ask me.

"That was a drunken woman who called up that night for the man the hotel manager called Mr. Glavan, wasn't it?" she asked.

"She sounded as if she were drunk," I answered, feeling as if my speech were wooden.

"Do you think she might have been pretending to be drunk?" she asked next, and, bewildered, I tried to recollect the raucous voice I had heard.

"I don't know," I said at last. "She might have been either. But why—?"

Mary interrupted me ruthlessly.

"What kind of voice did she have?" she asked abruptly. "Squeaky, high-pitched?"

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

(Copyright, 1938, By Ely Culbertson.)

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I hate bridge experts! Every time I start building up my mental attitude to the point where I believe my game is improving something happens to put me back in the bridge doldrums for a few months and makes me regret that I ever learned the game.

"We are a bridge playing community and all are roughly on a par. My husband, a college professor, has his weekly game with other learned savants from his institution and we wives have several afternoon games. The other night it was my misfortune to entertain a so-called expert and shortly after dinner a bridge game was started. I sat myself behind this oracle and after a few unexciting and unenlightening hands my guest (partnered with my husband) had a 60 partial, both sides vulnerable. The following hand was dealt:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 60 part-score

NORTH
♠ Q 7 5
♥ K Q 4 3
♦ 10 7 2
♣ A 10 5

WEST
♠ K J 4 3
♥ J 9
♦ 8 6 4
♣ K Q J 7

EAST

♦ A 5
♣ 9 8 6 4 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A 8
♥ A 10 8 6 5 2
♦ K Q J 9 3
♣ None

"I was kibitzing (I believe that is the correct term) the expert, who happened to be sitting South. He opened the bidding with one heart and after West passed my husband bid a meek and unpromising two hearts. East passed and, without a moment's hesitation, Mr. Expert jumped to six hearts. Was I astounded! Of course, as you can see at a glance, there is no play to the hand. It is a laydown against any opening.

"I couldn't restrain myself when the hand was over and asked him if that was the proper bid. He patronizingly replied that although there was one chance in ten of it going wrong, nevertheless, six hearts was the correct bid.

"Now, Mr. Culbertson, considering the 60 part-score, wouldn't it have been proper on my husband's part to raise to two hearts with something like the heart J x x and the club K-Q, or any number of such weak holdings in order to go game? Was six hearts such a sure bid that only one out of ten possible raises to two hearts would not have given South a play for six-odd?

"I am now going to ask you an embarrassing question. Would you have bid six hearts under the same conditions? Wonderingly yours,

"Mrs. R. W. F., Elsmere, N. Y."

It would take me many weary hours to count all the possible hands that North might have, justifying a single raise, which would not produce a good play for a slam. I cannot accept the "expert's" estimate that only one such hand out of ten would offer no chance for the slam.

Answering the question of whether or not I would have bid six hearts under the same conditions, I most emphatically would not have jumped from two to six, although, of course, I would have made a strong slam try. After the two heart response a mere three diamond bid on South's part would have been an obvious slam try, and if South wanted to make a stronger try he could have jumped to four diamonds, either as an asking bid, if the partnership was using this convention, or as a regulation suit showing bid. North, holding such an excellent single raise, would respond to either of these bids (three or four diamonds) with a slam try of his own which could consist of a jump in the heart suit or a club bid that obviously would be a cue bid showing the ace. In any event, South would discover that North's first raise, far from being shaded, had been ultra-conservative, and with that knowledge South could proceed to his slam with a great deal more assurance.

I strongly feel that the "expert" deliberately chose his wild leap as a spectacular performance for his audience!

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By MAX TRELL

"JUST LOOK at my coat!" said Knarf, the shadow boy, to his sister, Hanid.

Hanid looked at it, for Knarf was holding it up. "My goodness—it's worn to shreds. What have you done to it?"

"I haven't done anything to it. It isn't my fault at all that it's worn to shreds. It's my master's fault. This afternoon he played tag and he dragged me under the fence and across the rough garden wall and down the cellar steps and all along the stone pavement. It's no fun being the shadow of a boy."

Hanid nodded. "Some children don't care what they do to their shadows. But you must get that coat mended, Knarf. You can't wear it as it is. The light shines

They went down into the cellar, right through it. You'll look like a very funny shadow if you keep on wearing it as it is. We must go to Mrs. Spider at once."

Now Mrs. Spider—and this is something that not everyone knows—made all the clothes for the shadows. She spun them out of very wonderful thread.

So Knarf and Hanid went down into the cellar and walked past the furnace and the coal heap until they came at last to the little dusty window at the very back. It was here that Mrs. Spider had her tailor shop, in a web across a corner of the window.

They looked at the web. Mrs. Spider wasn't there.

"She's moved away!" Knarf said. "Now I'll never get my coat mended."

"I don't think she's moved away at all," said Hanid. "I think she's inside her little hallway. I'll let her know we're here." With that the shadow girl took hold of one of the strands of Mrs. Spider's web and gave it a tug. But no Mrs. Spider came out.

"My goodness, she really is gone. But where could she have gone to? This is her web all right."

Hanid looked all over the window sill. But she couldn't find any trace of Mrs. Spider. "Isn't that a shame," she finally said to Knarf. "She's really gone away and left her web. Now how are we going to get your coat mended if she does not do it?"

"That's just what I was going to ask you," said Knarf.

Shocks From Electricity Serious

Even Current in Home May Prove Fatal if Person Is Careless

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

AS CIVILIZATION has advanced more and more, hazards and dangers to life have appeared. We recognize the great mechanical and social advantages of electricity. But in a recent publication of an insurance company, it is pointed out that electricity was responsible in 1934 for more than 600 deaths in the United States.

It is true that many of these fatalities occurred among electrical linemen, electricians and workers engaged in installing high power machinery. Some were caused by electric burns. Some involved high voltage exposure. Others occurred as a result of contact with the ordinary household current. There is a universal belief that the low voltage so commonly found in homes is not dangerous. The ordinary household current of 100 to 110 volts is not in itself a dangerous current. But occasionally it may be of sufficient intensity to cause severe damage to the heart and produce instant death.

Many of these accidents could have been avoided. Too many persons are careless about the handling of electrical appliances. It is customary to assume that electrical equipment is always in perfect order. But we must not overlook the fact that with constant use wires become frayed and damaged. Conditions result which are capable of producing short circuits, and these make the appliance dangerous and prepare the way for electric shock.

It is unwise to handle electrical equipment while the hands or other parts of the body are wet. A dry skin serves as a barrier against the electrical current. But a moist skin lowers this resistance and a wet skin acts as an excellent conductor.

Many deaths have been reported of persons who received fatal shocks in handling electrical apparatus, while in the bathtub or before drying. I am glad to say that definite efforts are now being made to prevent these deaths. By emphasizing the danger, the public is coming to realize the importance of caution.

Electrical appliances should be checked and serviced by licensed electricians. This practice will increase the life of the appliances and prevent conditions favorable to direct contacts with the current.

Both will be arraigned in district court Thursday.

DENVER TOURNEY IN QUARTER FINALS AS FAVORITES ADVANCE

Missouri Valley A. A. U. Has Six Survivors of Cage Meet.

SAFEWAY V. HOLLYWOOD

QUARTER FINAL PAIRINGS.

Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers vs. Kansas City Healeys.

Bartlesville, Okl., Phillips vs. Colorado Springs Antlers.

Denver Safeways vs. Hollywood A. C.

Wichita Gridleys vs. Oklahoma City Parks.

BY WHITNEY MARTIN.

DENVER, (AP). It's the same old dress with a 1938 trimming as the national A. A. U. basketball tournament enters the quarterfinal round Thursday night. Six Missouri Valley A. A. U. league teams are among the seven surviving seeded quintets. One trimming will be missing—the eighth seeded team taking it Wednesday night.

The league teams are the champion Denver Safeways, the Bartlesville, Okl., Phillips, Kansas City, Kas., Healeys, Wichita, Kas., Gridleys, Oklahoma City Parks and Colorado Springs Antlers. Completing the list are the seeded Hollywood Athletic club and the unseeded Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers.

Two of the games match league teams, and on their season's records the Phillips rate as favorites over the Antlers, and the Gridleys over Parks.

Face Stern Scrap.

The Safeways face a stern battle with the rough and ready Hollywood team, and the Healeys must play basketball to defeat the Warrensburg youngsters, who turned in one of the slickest performances of the tournament Wednesday night.

Warrensburg nudged the seeded Montana State team out of the tournament as their part of a day's play which offered the odd picture of two teams finishing their games short handed.

The South Bend, Ind., Studebakers played the last five minutes with three men on the floor and the rest on the black list in their boisterous game with Hollywood. Three of the Indianans fouled out and a fourth was injured. The California team turned the contest into a farce, winning 57 to 31.

Harmons Bow Out.

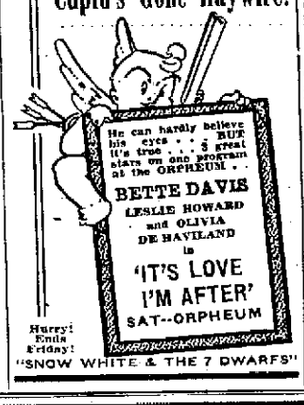

The Harmons of Chicago bowed out with four men on the stage as they lost a wild game to the Healeys, 76 to 44, a new high score for the tournament.

Montana State passed out as Warrensburg passed in for close shots to win, 46 to 25. The Antlers quelled the Chicago Collegians, Negro entry whose flashy floor play featured earlier games, 54 to 39.

The Safeways, using experimental lineups, eliminated the Tacoma, Wash., Alt Heidelbergs, 46 to 38, and the potent Phillips smothered the Portland, Ore., Packards, 66 to 22.

The Oakland, Calif., Stroms were a 37 to 24 victim of the Parks, and the Gridleys disposed of the Bogalusa, La., Gaylords, 57 to 35.

ATHLETES SEEK DARK CORNERS THIS WEEK

Yearling candidates for the Nebraska football team this spring change their clothes this week in dark corners of the dressing room.

It's "hell week" at some of the fraternities and one of them, it is said, requires all pledges to wear a diaper, long underwear, a girdle and one very sticky sheet of fly paper on the chest.

HAVELOCK GRID TEAM IN SPRING WORKOUTS

Engineers Lose Several Who Helped Win Greater Lincoln Title.

With but two regulars from last year's surprise outfit that knocked off Jackson to capture the coveted Greater Lincoln league title, Coach Lawrence Teply is losing no time in getting spring football drills under way at Havelock.

Not content with taking away such stars as Kenneth Carpenter, Ralph Harmon and Bill Wilhelm, graduation will also claim Charley McNurlin, ace blocking back, who, altho he is but a junior in years, will receive his diploma in June. Orie Cole, all-conference choice, has quit school.

At present, it appears the biggest task awaiting Teply is that of finding capable ends, centers, and backs. Leonard Kinzler, sub for Cole last fall, is the lone vet back at end, and, with a deficiency of reserve talent, it looks as tho the only solution will be to switch Bob DeBord, regular tackle last fall, to the right end berth. DeBord, a six footer, saw action at end last year and may fit in snugly.

Subs May Move In.

With DeBord at end, Lester Woodrum and Robert Farrell would have the inside tracks to the tackle jobs, altho a pair of subs, Howard Rhode and Bill Harmon, are decidedly in the picture. Harmon, younger brother of Ralph, will be a freshman next fall, but already scales 188 pounds.

Keith Moore and Russell Chittum have the guard situation well in hand, while the center job is wide open with Chet Rung graduating. Wilber Smith and Howard Porter, reserves last year, are top candidates.

Replacing Carpenter, Harmon and McNurlin will be no easy job, but Shoptown backers expect Kenneth McClure, hard running fullback, to take over the ball lugging role in fine fashion. Bob Maxwell and Lloyd Feerhenson should fit in as blocking backs, with the quarterback assignment still a question.

FREMONT BOXING TEAM WINS OVER HASTINGS

FREMONT, Neb. (UP). The Fremont Golden Gloves champions, won six of eight bouts from Hastings American Legion boxers before more than 1,000 fans here Wednesday night.

Billy Walsh, middleweight, and Martin Helzer, bantamweight, were the Hastings winners.

Two members of the Sioux City team aided the winners, while Hastings was spiked with Superior Golden Gloves champions.

GERMAN CONDITIONS MAY KEEP MAX HOME

CHICAGO, (AP). Promoter Mike Jacobs said "scrambled conditions in Germany" may prevent Max Schmeling from returning to the United States for his heavyweight title bout with Joe Louis scheduled for June. He intimated Max Baer would get the call if the German didn't show up.

However, Jacobs confined himself to possibilities and made no definite decisions, least of all on the site of the Schmeling-Louis fight for which Chicago is bidding. He arrived here to lend a hand in the staging of Louis' title match with Harry Thomas April 1 in the stadium.

CONNIE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER ATHLETIC TRIBE

Brucker Listed as Regular Receiver—Nelson Potter Pitching Recruit.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UP). When most men either are thru or in their graves, Connie Mack is beginning all over again. At 75, and with a record of 37 continuous years of managing the Philadelphia Athletics, the sparsely built, kindly eyed old gentleman is bubbling over with enthusiasm.

There are two reasons for his zestful outlook. He's just licked a serious illness which lasted five months. He became very ill in August and in late January was down to 119 pounds. Now he's eating three big meals a day and has his weight up to 139.

The other reason is that he is looking ahead to building another great ball club. In his time he's won nine pennants, and torn several great teams apart and started all over again.

Mack confided that he believed he had the makings of another championship club.

"We're not quite ready yet," he said. "They've got us outclassed now, but we're coming. The real strength is in the pitching staff. Right now I wouldn't trade my staff for any other in the league except Cleveland's. But my pitchers still are in the process of developing. They too, need more experience."

Mack admitted that he had quite a few problems to solve before the Athletics can challenge the Yankees and become a serious pennant threat.

Develops Youngsters.

"But that's what I get a kick out of," he said, "training and schooling players and watching them develop along the lines I want them to. I have just as much interest and enthusiasm now as I had 38 years ago when I became the Athletics' manager. If I wasn't 100 percent interested it would be tough trying to rebuild a team at this late date."

Remembering the spurt of the Athletics which skyrocketed them into the lead for a brief time last spring, Mack said he didn't expect any such happening this season.

"But if we should get out in front this year," he added, "they'll have a harder time catching us. They'll beat us all right but we'll hang on much longer."

The whole team, more or less, is still in an experimental stage outside the battery department.

The pitching staff is very promising. The best work is expected from Harry Kelley, George Caster, Lee Ross, Edgar Smith, Bud Thomas and Al Williams. Others who may help include Chubby Dean, the converted first baseman, Will Kalfass, Handall Gumpert, Lynn Nelson and Nelson Potter. Earl Brucker will be the No. 1 receiver with Frank Hayes the other catcher.

Hasson on First.

From the present outlook, 23 year old Gene Hasson will play first, Skeeter Newsome short, and Bill Werber third. As on many other clubs, second base is a nightmare. The job may go to any one of four—Russ Peters, Wayne Ambler, Irving Bartling from Henderson, Tex., or Dario Lodigiani (pronounced Load-e-johnny) from Oakland. Lodigiani hasn't looked like a major leaguer in camp but he's being given plenty of time because of his reputation as a slow starter.

In the outfield Bob Johnson is booked for left, Hal Finney for center, and Wally Moses for right. Paul Easterling from Oklahoma City is putting up a battle for the centerfield job. Herb Barna, former West Virginia end, is considered a brilliant outfield prospect but is possibly a year away. Mule Haas, back with the A's, will be the utility man.

Whether the A's can rise above their seventh place notch of last year depends largely on just how far the young pitchers have come along. But seventh place again or even the cellar won't dampen the enthusiasm of the "young" man who manages the A's.

BIFF'S QUICK-DRYING SAND PILES PROVIDE HUSKER DRILL FIELD

Capt. Gar Davidson and Dave Noble Spectators at Scarlet Workout.

PASSERS BEGIN IMPROVE

BY JOHN BENTLEY.

Those mounds on the Husker practice field which have some of the appearances of being old Indian burial grounds came in handy Tuesday as the Nebraska football team came outside after a day's idleness due to rain. Before the spring work started Biff Jones had two mounds constructed at the west end of the field and the surface was largely sandy. Built so that they would drain rapidly, these offer a practice surface for wet weather. It appeared that they might be about as useful as the buttons on the sleeves of a man's coat until Tuesday, but they were in use at that time.

Goes to Hawaii.

Capt. Gar Davidson, who played end for Army under Biff Jones, later was an assistant coach when Biff was at West Point and more recently head coach of Army teams, was an interested spectator. He has completed his term of duty at the Point, but will conduct spring practice there this spring before reporting for duty in Hawaii this summer.

He was most interested in the maneuvers of the line candidates.

"This backfield stuff is easy," he explained.

Another spectator was Dave Noble, who played a lot of halfback for Nebraska from 1921 to 1923. Dave was down from Omaha on business and decided to have a look-see at the Huskers. Noble is now a football official and has four games booked for next fall.

Heaves More Accurate.

Those who have been watching the Huskers in the spring workout since it started, over two weeks ago, have noticed one thing in particular. It is the increased accuracy of the forward passers. They are beginning to find the range again, with Thurston Phelps, George Porter, Bill Andreson, Bus Knight and Roy Petsch doing the hurling.

Altho the practice field was not offering much in the way of sound footing, Biff put the Husker passers thru their daily drills. The receivers were having trouble keeping their feet, Hermie Rohrig finding it almost impossible to stay in an upright position.

Alan Gould, sports editor of the Associated Press, is due here Saturday, enroute east from the national A. A. U. basketball tournament. He will watch the Huskers in a scrimmage workout and be the guest of Major and Mrs. Jones in the evening.

This workout, like the other spring practice sessions, will be held behind closed gates.

NEBRASKA WRESTLERS END SEASON SATURDAY

Olympic Matman on Invading Cornell Grapple Squad; Webster to Captain.

Nebraska university wrestlers hang up their trunks for the season Saturday night when they entertain the Cornell college of Mount Vernon, Ia., mat squad in a dual meet at the coliseum.

The Cornell outfit boasts an Olympic grappler, Dale Brand, who competed in the 124 pound division in the 1936 games. Brand now wrestles at 135 and probably will meet Husker Bill Luke Saturday.

Fred Webster, Lincoln, 118 pound senior, will captain the Huskers. Coach Jerry Adams has not announced the remainder of the squad.

Nebraska wrestlers have met Cornell several times before but never in Lincoln.

Burleigh Grimes Has Tough Problem as Skipper of Daffy Dodger Outfit

Hassett May Be Shifted to Outfield on Account of His Hitting.

BY STEVE SNIDER.

CHICAGO. (UP). When trouble drops in on the Brooklyn Dodgers it comes in bunches.

Manager Burleigh Grimes has two first basemen, no third baseman, two second basemen, no left fielder—and Van Mungo.

Mungo is enough trouble for one ball club. Once he threatened never to pitch another game for the Dodgers but Grimes talked him out of that. The infield, however, can't be smoothed out so quickly.

Grimes listed 12 infielders on his roster, 12 pitchers, 3 catchers and 7 outfielders. Out of ths pack, he is certain he can pick a club good enough to finish at least as high as in 1937—sixth.

Dolph Camilli, who hit .339 at Philadelphia last year, will make a definite improvement in the Dodger infield altho he will shove Buddy Hassett off first base. Hassett, a .304 hitter, also is a good fielder.

On second, Grimes will use either Harry Lavagetto, a veteran who hit .282 or Rookie Pete Coscarart, up from Portland with an average of .253. Leo Durocher, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, and Woody English, one time field captain of the Chicago Cubs, were listed as shortstops. Jack Radtke, who hit .225 at Wilkes-Barre, is the only regular third baseman listed. The corner likely will be filled with one of the left over infielders.

Heinie Manush, the old American leaguer, again will head the outfield candidates. Manush, in one of the best years of his long career, hit .333 in 132 games for the Dodgers. Gil Brack .274 and Buddy Winsett .237, also operated in the outfield last season and have first call now. Hassett may be converted into an outfielder to capitalize on his hitting.

Pitching is a problem. Led by Mungo, who won 9 and lost 11, the Dodgers have four fair right handed veterans and one rookie—Bill Posedel. Grimes is counting on. Posedel won 21, lost 12 at Portland last year.

The others are Fred Fitzsimmons (4-8), Fred Frankhouse, whose 10-13 included the only no-hitter in the National league last year, Waite Hoyt (7-7), and Luke Hamlin (11-13). The left hander is Alta Cohen (15-7) at Toledo.

Babe Phelps, a .313 hitter in 1937, will handle most of the catching assignments with a little aid here and there from Roy Spencer and possibly Paul Chervinko.

BROCK AT PLEASANTON.

Charley Brock, Nebraska U., star center, will be guest of honor at a dinner for the Pleasanton high school basketball players at Pleasanton, March 19. Brock will show films of several Husker football games. The dinner is sponsored by the Pleasanton high school pep club.

Joe Louis, Training For Thomas Bout, Has Defense For Right Hand

I May Be Wrong

By John Bentley

Evidently it happens in the best of regulated football families.

Capt. Gar Davidson, former Army coach, was watching the Huskers, who were engaged in a forward passing drill. After each forward, the receiver would drop a backward pass to another team mate.

"Those laterals and what a headache they are at times," Capt. Davidson said. "We were playing Notre Dame last fall and had fought our way from deep in our own territory to the Irish 20 yard line. Our line opened a hole thru which any back who ever carried a football could have made at least eight yards. But the lad who took the ball for us went fancy. As he reached the line of scrimmage, instead of plowing thru the wide open spaces, he tossed a lateral. In the scramble for it that followed Notre Dame got possession."

Notre Dame won the game, 7 to 0.

John: I have waited patiently for some mention of one young man who put on what I considered one of the finest, the briefest, exhibitions of the tournament. I am refering to the work of Junior Ennen of Lincoln high in the semifinal game against Creighton.

It is true that Francis and Hay fired the icing shots but it seems that some recognition should be accorded the young man who passed them the amunition. Ennen's play was not fancy but for sheer hustling I believe that it was not exceeded in the tournament. Ennen's work also seemed to inspire a team that had played listlessly thru most of the game and I believe that this lad deserves a good deal of credit for the rally that turned the tide. I have never seen one man turn up with the ball in as many disputes or break up as many passes as Ennen did in those last five minutes.

JOHN H. KERIAKEDES.

What will it take to put Lincoln back on the professional baseball map?

Pug Griffin, who operated and managed the Links with Cy Lingle for two seasons, 1935 and 1936, is interested in reviving Nebraska State league ball in the Capital City. He says he will need $5,500 in addition to his own capital before he can start.

He hopes to raise that amount thru the sale of $10 season books. It is apparent that Lincoln will have to act quickly as State league heads will meet in Norfolk Monday to organize for the season. They will want Lincoln's answer at that time.

Harry Sorenson, former Husker cager, led the Colorado Springs Antlers to a 53 to 25 victory over Schenectady, N. Y., in the National A. A. U. tourney at Denver...He registered 8 field goals and 4 free tosses...Hugh McDermott, Oklahoma coach, has been an A. A. A. spectator and Nebraska's Harold Browne is scheduled to take part in the coaches clinic Friday...Brownie's vocal chords have been on strike for the past couple of days, and he can barely speak above a whisper...Fred Mosiman has been elected captain of the 1938-39 Falls City high school basketball squad...He is a brother of Woodrow Mosiman who piloted the 1932 Tiger football team...Bob Faris, Fremont, who has been playing on the George Washington U., quintet, was named on the all-metropolitan quint by Washington scribes...He is 6 feet, weighs 175 and scored 173 points during the season.

BOMBER SEEKS MORE BOUTS RATHER THAN PREPARATORY WORK

Champion Dislikes Labor of Overtime Training Schedules.

ASKS PING PONG LAYOUT

By FRANCIS J. POWERS.

CHICAGO. (Copyright, 1938). Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, came down from the Michigan pastures to start training for his fight with Harry Thomas here, on April 1. Which is a proper day for any one to go fooling with Joe Louis.

Only six pounds over his fighting weight, Louis won't need much training for the Thomas bout. Joe still is in fine condition as result of the 53 days spent preparing for Natie Mann. That was the longest stretch of training Louis ever put in and he doesn't care for any repeat of the performance. Joe would rather fight often than train over a lengthy stretch, and for that reason wants another bout, after the one with Thomas, before he defends his title against Max Schmeling in June.

Louis boxed three rounds with George Nicholson of Yonkers, and then asked Julian Black, one of his managers, to have the ping pong table shipped down from Michigan. Nicholson has boxed more than 100 rounds with Louis and never has been knocked out, which is a record he can proudly save for his grand children. Nicholson worked with Joe for the Braddock, Farr and Mann fights and claims that the champion constantly is improving his boxing.

It is recalled that when Louis was training for Braddock, he frequently was speared by Nicholson's right hand. In Wednesday's skirmish, Louis was picking off that same right with his gloves and elbows and only two broke thru his defense.

Thomas at Same Gym.

Thomas is training at the same gymnasium used by Louis and the champion was an interested spectator when the Eagle Bend, Minn., boxer worked against three sparring partners. One of Thomas's spar mates is Seal Harris, who absorbed several tons of Louis' punches last summer and is presumed to know a lot about the champion's style, etc. Thomas has completely recovered from the mouth wound that caused him so much trouble in his bout with Max Schmeling and lathered all of his practice opponents in rough fashion.

The Louis camp has much respect for Thomas' courage and while from a boxing standpoint the Minnesotan cannot be rated as much of a match for the champion, Joe is not taking the big blond lightly. Thomas can hit and he can take plenty, so the fight may offer much more than first appearances promise. Since it will be the first boxing show of any importance Chicago has had since the Louis-Braddock fight of last June, most of the fistic minded citizens are arranging to be present for whatever develops.

Army Coach Sees Huskers

Capt. Gar Davidson, left, former Army coach who completes his service in this capacity with spring practice, was here Wednesday to watch the Huskers in spring drills and renew acquaintance with Biff Jones. Davidson played end under Biff when the latter coached at West Point, later serving as an assistant under Jones. Davidson will report for foreign service in Hawaii next July.

M'LEMORE

Note to 'Morgue:' File Little's Biography

By HENRY M'LEMORE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (Copyright 1938, UP). Note to sports editors: for your convenience, in case the pro-amateur team of Lawson Little and Henry McLemore wins the $3,000 tournament which begins here Thursday, the following golf biographies of the two players are attached.

William Lawson Little: A San Francisco boy who is one of the game's longest hitters. Established an amazing record as an amateur when, in 1934 and 1935, he won both the British and U. S. amateur titles. Since turning professional he has won many tournaments, including the Canadian open and the San Francisco match play, the former with an all time record medal score of 271.

Recently finished third in the $8,500 Los Angeles open, and is ranked as one of the country's greatest and most colorful players.

Now For Henry.

Henry McLemore: Macon, Ga., boy who is one of the game's shortest drivers, but who makes up for his lack of distance off the tee by the slowness with which he walks to his ball. It takes him just as long to get to his drives as it does Jimmy Thomson to get to his.

McLemore likes to tee up his ball in the rough and will do it consistently if not watched. McLemore contends that if by elevating a ball in the rough a mere fraction of an inch you are able to gain 50 yards or more in distance, a man is sucker not to tee it up.

Is very sentimental and likes to have close relatives or persons he has something on, caddy for him.

First came into prominence as a golfer in 1931 when he was runnerup in the ladies open Tom Thumb championship in Minneapolis. Playing from the back tees, and wearing a midday blouse, McLemore was well on the way to the finals when his wig fell off.

The Two Stances.

Favors the closed stance in closed tournaments and the open stance in open tournaments.

Plays with a shut face club and an open mouth.

At Pinehurst, McLemore is remembered as the man who defeated Francis Ouimet, former open and amateur champion. He played with Ouimet and not against him.

Maureen Orcutt once gave McLemore a stroke a hole and the best Mauren could do was to eke out an 18-up victory.

Altho he has never won a large tournament, he has played in a great many and will be remembered as the only man ever to play a full brassie into the refreshment tent at the Bing Crosby $3,000 open. In the 1935 North and South open he once again made an amazing shot. Playing off the first tee he drove into the back seat of a car parked directly behind him.

Hard to Comprehend.

Compare these two records, particularly Mr. Little's with those of any other professional-amateur combination in the field. The results will be unbelievable.

Further note to sports editors: Mr. McLemore has announced his intention of turning professional in case he and Mr. Little win. He has no intention of not getting his $500 split.

BOOSTER BOWLER HAS HIS DAY IN ABC MEET

Thirty-seven Squads Have Shown Wares in Tourney Last Two Weeks.

CHICAGO. (AP). The booster bowler has his last big night in the American Bowling Congress Thursday night, and after that the regulars will take over for the final two-thirds of the 48-day contest at the coliseum.

Thirty-seven squads of booster teams have taken to the 40 shining drives at the A. B. C. in the past two weeks and fired away for special prizes. Four more squads of 40 teams each will do the same Thursday, and when they are finished just two booster squads remain on the schedule, one for next Tuesday, the other for next Wednesday. All the other action will be furnished by the regulars and will be of championship consideration.

There was a time when the A. B. C. restricted booster teams to those of the home state in which the tournament was held. But now the boosters are without restrictions. Some 1,750 of them paid their dues for the 1938 tournament.

Siener Near Top.

Tho they are eligible for the major prizes should they shoot high enough, booster bowlers seldom get any. This year will be no exception, for only one of their number, Ted Siener, of Indianapolis can be found near the top of the standings now. Siener is second in the individual ratings, but those figures are due for much revision before the wind-up on April 19.

The most important action on Wednesday's program took place in the two-man team division. Four members of the Hungarian American Social Athletic club of Chicago took over first and fourth places in the tight race. Louis Hornyak and John Nozar went to the head of the class with 1,227. The Kinjnik brothers, Louis and Benjamin, bumped five pins less for fourth position.

John Duthorn of Arlington Heights, Ill., put together a 686 series for third place in the individual standings. The rest of them just bowled for exercise. The standings:

LEFTY GOMEZ CLAIMS BIG WALT BROWN IS TOOL OF BILL TERRY

Goofy Challenges Statement That Giant Pilot Is Tops Behind Wheel.

THINKS HE IS HITTER

BY JOHN LARDNER.

Copyright, 1938, by the NANA, Inc. Lincoln Journal and other newspapers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Lefty Gomez, the haughty Andalusian pitcher, is going around muttering "sycophant" to himself. In a pinch, he can spell the word as well as mutter it. Mr. Gomez is referring to big Walter Brown, of the New York Giants, who recently cast his vote for William Harold Terry as the best and fastest automobile driver in baseball.

"I can't understand Brown's attitude," said Mr. Gomez. "Hasn't he read about my record shattering trip from coast to coast, at the helm of my black bullet? If he did read about it, and still votes for Terry as a better driver, then I am forced to draw an ugly conclusion—the fellow is a paid tool. Sycophancy has raised its head. Brown is currying the favor of the man who employs him. He is truckling."

What wounds the Spaniard most deeply is to think that Brown was once a Yankee himself, and, to all appearances, a loyal one.

"In those happy days," recalls Mr. Gomez, "if you asked Brownie who was the best driver in the business, he always replied 'Who but Gomez?' and he was always right. We were one big happy family.

Big Year at Plate.

"Speaking of my hitting," says Gomez enthusiastically, "I think I am in for my greatest year. Last year, I was a name to conjure with at the plate. Pitchers came down with toothaches and sore throats when they heard that Gomez was going to hit against them that day. This year it will be worse. I am going to hammer down the fences. If Di Maggio don't sign his contract soon, it's a cinch that Joe McCarthy will put he in the outfield."

Joe McCarthy, standing nearby, seems slightly surprised by this statement, but Mr. Gomez carried on without losing a stride.

"I am going to go over to the Brooklyn camp soon and beard Van Lingle Mungo," he says. "I will bet him a king's ransom—whatever is left from my alimony payments—that I will outhit him this year from scratch. He spotted me a hundred points and bet me a hundred dollars last year. I won with laughable ease. Now I hear he is boasting about his hitting again. Tch! Tch! The fellow's pride will ruin him."

Will Outshine Diz.

Senor Gomez is in high spirits these days, in spite of the check for alimony that he writes each week to the order of June O'Dea, the former Mrs. Gomez. And Lefty is a man to keep your eye on. Fully recovered from the mental and physical troubles of 1935 and 1936, he is the pitcher who will shoulder Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell from the peak in the next few years.

Lefty is much younger than either Hubbell or Diz (don't be fooled by Dizzy's official birth date). Gomez is in his pitching prime, while Lee Grissom and Bob Feller are still a few seasons away. He won't be a 30 game winner perhaps, for the Yankee system calls for too many starting pitchers. But he will dominate the industry in strikeouts and earned runs, and in almost everything else you can name, including that thing called color.

Here is the pitcher of the year for 1938.

REX FLOYD DEFENDS.

BEATRICE.—The Beatrice track team will be built around Rex Floyd, defending state half mile champion. Other lettermen are John Hubbard, who also placed in the 880 yard run at the 1937 state meet; Rufus Miller, miler; and Larry Buckley, sprinter. Coach Bob Latta plans an interclass meet to uncover additional talent.

Bowling

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE.

Vicek put together scores of 235, 176 and 229 for a 640 series and individual laurels while he and his Little Joes mates were winning the odd tray from Liberty Browne Package, who won from Knights of Columbus by forfeit, turned in team highs of 873 and 2,427. Kosek rolled 207-210-209—626. Lincoln Newspapers won the deciding game from Board of Education, Iowa Nebraska shut out Brass Rail, Hall Conoco decisioned Lincoln Laundry and Forest Service whitewashed Carl Woods.

BANNER LEAGUE.

S. Willis' 234 game and 610 series paced the league as Brts lost two to Dutch Maid. The winners had top team scores of 916 and 2,769. L. Kinney scored a 233 game for Dutch Maid. Art Elliotts' blanked Modern Shoe, Forest Service shut out All Service, Hamburger whitewashed Safeway and U. S. Treasury won the deciding game from DuTeau.

CHICAGO. (AP). Dr. Homer Hulniston said Harold "Red" Grange, once Illinois' "Galloping Ghost" of the gridiron, now recovering from an operation, was expected to leave the hospital within a week.

WESLEYAN CINDERMEN LIST EIGHT VETERANS

Hastings and Drake Relays, N.C.A.C. Contest Big Events of Slate.

With eight lettermen returning, Coach Dwight Thomas' Nebraska Wesleyan track and field artists are drilling daily in the Plainsmen bowl. A six meet schedule is being lined up by Thomas, with Hastings relays, Drake relays, and N. C. A. C. conference meet topping the list.

Tennis, with Coach John Roberts in charge, will be the other spring sport.

Heading the list of returning track vets are Conference Champions Kyle Randall and Charley Burroughs. Randall captured the 220 and 440 last year, while Burroughs spurted ahead of the century field.

Other monogram winners back are Carl Randall, half miler; Don Otto, sprinter; Marian Carruthers, 440 and pole vault; Panzer, distances; James, sprints; and Hicks, distances.

CORTLAND WHIPS FURRS.

CORTLAND.—Cortland town team cagers turned back Furrs of Lincoln, 38-24, as the Grieser brothers accounted for 26 points. Layad's eight points topped the visitors.

*—New lows.

NEW YORK. (AP). Selected stocks swung into an early rally in Thursday's market but follow thru steam was lacking and gains of fractions to 2 or more points among leading industrials were eventually cut or changed into losses. The war scare of Wednesday, which toppled world markets generally, seemed to have lessened but no great amount of buying cheerfulness was exhibited in the financial sector.

Backwardness of rails was a retarding influence. These were mildly stimulated in the final hour by announcement, following the white house transportation conference, that the president had named three members of the interstate commerce commission as a special committee to formulate recommendations for immediate action by congress in view of the "critical" situation of most roads.

Gold Mines were exceptionally weak, with Homestake, exdividend, dropping more than 4 points. Dome, McIntyre and Alaska Juneau hit new lows for the year. The list was fairly active at the start, but dealings subsequently slowed to a crawl. Transfers were around 550,000 shares.

The initial comeback of the list followed an upward reversal of Wednesday's slumping European markets. The principal foreign currencies steadied in terms of the dollar. Steels, rubbers, aircrafts, coppers and specialties were in the front of the forenoon rebound.

There were a number of pleasing earnings statements, and here and there hopeful signs were present on the business horizon. At the same time speculative contingents held to a go-slow position pending more definite indications the recessionary tide is getting ready to turn.

The flight of foreign capital into dollars let up considerably. There was much discussion in boardrooms regarding the ultimate effect on securities of the inflow of frightened funds, and some thought market support might result in the long run.

Wall street views of the European scene were at odds, but most observers were of the opinion an outbreak of hostilities would be averted at this time. Few, tho, would forecast transatlantic events over any extended period. On the cloudy side of trade was the 18th consecutive drop in bank clearings and a decline in engineering construction awards from the previous week.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

LONDON. (AP). The general tendency of the stock market was higher and government loans recovered. Rising prices in the early part of the session brought renewed liquidation and some gains were cancelled. American shares followed the decline in New York late Wednesday and final prices were off as much as three points but wer emostly above Wall street's Wednesday finals. The industrial, oil and mining groups were mixed. Most of the list closed near the best.

PARIS.—Altho trading in the bourse was on a moderate scale, prices finished strong with the industrial groups selling 20 to 90 francs up. Rentes advanced 35 to 225 centimes and bank shares were also higher. Suez Canal moved up more than 400 francs while Royal Dutch was off 70 francs.

NEW YORK. (AP). Bank clearings in 22 leading cities failed for the 18th consecutive week to equal the comparable 1937 total, Dun & Bradstreet reported. Turnover in the latest period amounted to $5,480,233,000, a decrease of 25.5 percent from $7,358,198,000 last year. Compared with the preceding week, however, clearings rose $732,008,000. At New York volume dropped to $3,552,958,000 from $4,910,230,000 in the corresponding 1937 week, a decline of 27.6 percent. In outside centers, the aggregate of $1,927,275,000 dropped 21.3 percent from $2,447,968,000. Declines were registered by all 22 cities, compared with last year. The largest drops were: Detroit 40.8 percent, Cleveland 28.9, Boston 28, Buffalo 27.9, Pittsburgh 23.6, Seattle 21.5, and Omaha 20.5 percent.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON. (AP). (USDA) Manufacturers were showing an increased interest in domestic wools and they were making some purchases. Most of the purchases, however, were on small volume as buyers were trying to sound on the market rather than to cover goods orders. The business was quite widely scattered over a number of grades and prices were steady to firmer than were received last week.

DRYGOODS.

NEW YORK. (AP). Cotton goods markets were dull and prices continued to display an easier tendency. Finished cottons sold in small amounts. Raw silk was down 2 cents a pound, the reductions bringing considerable business into the market. Spun staple rayon was active but other rayon yarns moved in moderate quantities. Burlap was quiet and steady.

METAL MARKETS.

NEW YORK. (AP). Copper steady; electrolytic spot and future 10.00; export 10.05. Tin steady; spo tand nearby 41.50; future 41.60. Lead steady; spot, New York 4.50@4.55; East St. Louis 4.35. Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and future 4.25. Iron, aluminum, antimony, quicksilver, platinum and wolframite unchanged.

DIVIDENDS.

NEW YORK. (AP) Directors of Sharon Steel corporation took no action on a common stock dividend altho the regular dividend of $1.25 a preferred share was declared payable April 1 to stock of record March 25. The company last year paid four dividends of 30 cents each on the common.

RAIL EARNINGS CONTINUE DROP.

WASHINGTON. (AP). The Association of American Railroads reported that preliminary reports from 91 class one railroads showed operating revenues of $205,973,953 in February compared with $268,408,458 in February, 1937 and $351,111,482 in the same month of 1930.

CONSTRUCTION AWARDS.

NEW YORK. (AP). Engineering construction awards for the week ended Tuesday amounted to $53,294,000, compared with $80,521,000 the previous week and $54,559,000 the corresponding week of 1937, the Engineering News-Record reported.

WHEAT PRICES TURN DOWN

Rally on Duststorm Report Unable Erase Losses.

CHICAGO. (AP). Despite late rallies, Chicago wheat prices failed to recover fully from earlier material setbacks that resulted from a let up in war scare talk. Dust storm reports from domestic winter crop areas southwest were largely responsible for wheat price rallies. General buying demand in the wheat pit, however, was unaggressive awaiting the United States government crop report due Friday.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ½ to 1 cent under Wednesday's finish, May 87@87⅛, July 84¼@⅜, corn unchanged to ¼ higher, May 59⅛@¼, July 61@61⅛, and oats unchanged to ¼ off.

Giving emphasis to reports of diminished belligerency abroad was the fact that the Liverpool wheat market had not only ignored wheat price skyrocketing this side the Atlantic, but showed decided downturns Thursday besides, exporters noted an apparent complete lack of foreign demand for North American wheat overnight. A firmer tone in securities at New York was also taken as a signal for wheat price tumbles here.

Continued pressure to sell Australian wheat arrivals in Europe was given as among the reasons for downturns of Liverpool quotations. There also were reports that British millers' inquiry for wheat was not urgent. The Liverpool wheat market, due ¾@1⅜ cents higher, closed at 2 cents to 2½ cents a bushel net loss.

Rye and oats sympathized with wheat market weakness. Corn, however, displayed a tendency to advance owing to indication of corn export business and because of moist weather likely to hinder rural movement of corn.

GRAIN NOTES.

CHICAGO (AP). Political developments abroad, said Bartlett, Frazier & Co., "appear to be moving rapidly to a climax. The situation in cash wheat at home and the serious world outlook abroad could easily restore prices to more satisfactory levels."

The government weekly weather and crop report said: "Condition of winter wheat in the Ohio valley ranges from fair to good. In Illinois, grain is from 1 to 3 inches high and greening slowly with good stands and color reported. Precipitation was generally beneficial thruout the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and most plains states, where condition ranges from fair to excellent."

James E. Bennett & Co. said of corn: "A good demand continued for choice corn in the sample market with the industries, elevators and feed manufacturers active, altho there was a little easier feeling on the white corn which is commanding a premium. A fair export interest was indicated."

LIVERPOOL WHEAT AND COTTON.

LIVERPOOL. (AP). Wheat futures lost 1⅝d to 1⅞d net on fears of large lenders on March contracts, extremely small milling demand and general liquidation.

Cotton declined in response to the disappointing overseas markets and scattered liquidation and finished 1 to 3 points down.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO. (AP). Moderate action marked trade in the hog market despite a cut in receipts. Prices ruled strong to mostly 10c higher with the top at $9.75 and the bulk of good butchers from $9.40 to $9.70. Receipts at 8,000 head were 1,000 fewer than estimated Wednesday.

Trade in the cattle pens was slow with all buyers attempting to erase Wednesday's 15c to 25c advance. All buyers were going slow. Most steers sold early at $8.00 to $9.25 with the top of $10.00.

Sheep and lambs were slow with a few early sales fully 25c lower on lambs. Wooled lambs topped at $9.25, but this was paid for one deck of choice by a small killer.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK. (AP). Cotton futures opened 3 higher to 4 lower on irregular Liverpool cables, trade buying and foreign selling. March 8.89; May 8.92; July 8.95; October 9.00; December 9.00; January 9.03.

The orders were small and mixed, reflecting continued nervousness over European developments. Hedge selling was more active at the opening but later contracts became scarce and prices rallied a few points. Last minute evening up of March contracts occurred with the issuance of 14 notices. May advanced from 8.92 to 8.95 but shortly after the first half hour was again 8.92, with the list 1 point net lower to 1 higher.

The market ruled quiet but steady later in the morning. Liverpool buying, following a late upturn in that market, and in sympathy with the steadier tone of foreign markets generally, helped sentiment here. May at midday was selling at 8.94 and the market generally was 1 to 4 points net higher. Trading in current March contracts expired at noon with a price of 8.09, or 3 points net higher.

NEW YORK. (AP). The bond market turned lower after a mixed opening, with some U. S. government obligations showing easiness. Losses of 3-32nds to 9-32nds were dominant in U. S. issues, with a handful of gains of around 4-32nds.

Railroad liens, with a few exceptions, lost initial gains and were fractions to a point or more lower, including Erie 5s of '75, Great Northern 4½s of '77 "E" and 4s of '46, Illinois Central 4¾s and New York Central 5s. Baltimore & Ohio liens steadied at slightly higher prices, for the most part.

Foreign governments were quieter. Austrian 5s gained a few points and Belgium governments were steadier after their drop o fthe past few days. Industrials and utilities moved narrowly.

Bill McKechnie Believes He Has Pitching "Find" in John Doehring

Chicago Bears' Fullback Is Offered Contract by Ciney Skipper.

BY GAYLE TALBOT.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP). Bill McKechnie would just as soon not discuss the chances of his last place Cincinnati Reds, but he does believe he has made a sensational pitching find in John Doehring, 235 pound fullback of the Chicago professional Bears.

Bill, one of baseball's conservatives, is very high in praise of Doehring. Thinks he might accidentally have discovered a really great player, one of those naturals that come to a manager maybe once in his career, if he's lucky. The Reds could use a number of them.

It's a dizzy story, about Doehring, who is also a part time wrestler. He's 25 now and he hasn't played any baseball since he was in his 'teens. That was in his home, Milwaukee. As he explained it to McKechnie, he struck out 12 in a row the last time he pitched, but it hurt his arm and he gave up the game.

Since then he's been playing a lot of football for the Bears. After the Bears completed their barnstorming tour with the Washington Redskins down here, Doehring, like his teammate, Bronko Nagurski, turned to the profound sport of wrestling, and he's been winning like sixty.

Surprises Davis.

A week ago, tho, he showed up at the Reds' workout and asked McKechnie if he would let him toss a few balls. Spring was in the air and he felt like having a good game of catch. Bill said sure, to throw as many as he wanted at Virgil Davis, the veteran catcher. He hadn't cut loose with a dozen before Davis stopped operations with a puzzled look and put a sponge in his big mitt.

"I don't know when I saw a faster ball," recounted McKechnie. "I wouldn't believe my eyes until I asked Davis, and he said I was dead right. His fast one hops like Bill Hallahan's used to and he has as good a curve as I want to see. He looks like a great hitter too. Honest I believe he's the finest prospect in all my experience."

Bill, as you might have guessed, began flourishing a contract in Doehring's face, but the big fellow wasn't impressed. He was lined up for a deputy sheriff's job in Milwaukee, he explained, and he didn't want to lose it. McKechnie finally talked him into going up to Milwaukee at the Reds' expense to clinch his job with the law, and then come back. Doehring returned Wednesday and signed the papers.

Needs Experience.

"One year's experience is about all he'll need," McKechnie predicted. "I'm going to keep him with me right to the start of the season and then send him to Columbia in the South Atlantic league. He'll burn it up, sure as the world."

Doehring still is a bit startled about the whole thing. It's something to have even the Reds snatch you off the wrestling mat.

When he talks about the rest of the club, reluctantly, Bill isn't quite so happy. He can't see for certain where the Reds are going to be any better.

Obviously, he pointed out, every job on the Cincinnati club is wide open. It's that way when a team finishes eighth, 25 games from the top. Even Ernie Lombardi, the slugging catcher, stands a good chance of losinig the first string job to Willard Hershberger, a youngster from Newark.

If there is any improvement, McKechnie looks for it to come from his new first baseman, Frank McCormick, down from Syracuse, and from the veteran outfielder, Dusty Cooke, who is back in the big time after having hit an impressive .345 at Minneapolis.

The pitching staff, headed by Lee Grissom, is young and full of possibilities, but as a whole it still lacks control and, as McKechnie points out, that's bad.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS—BY EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS.

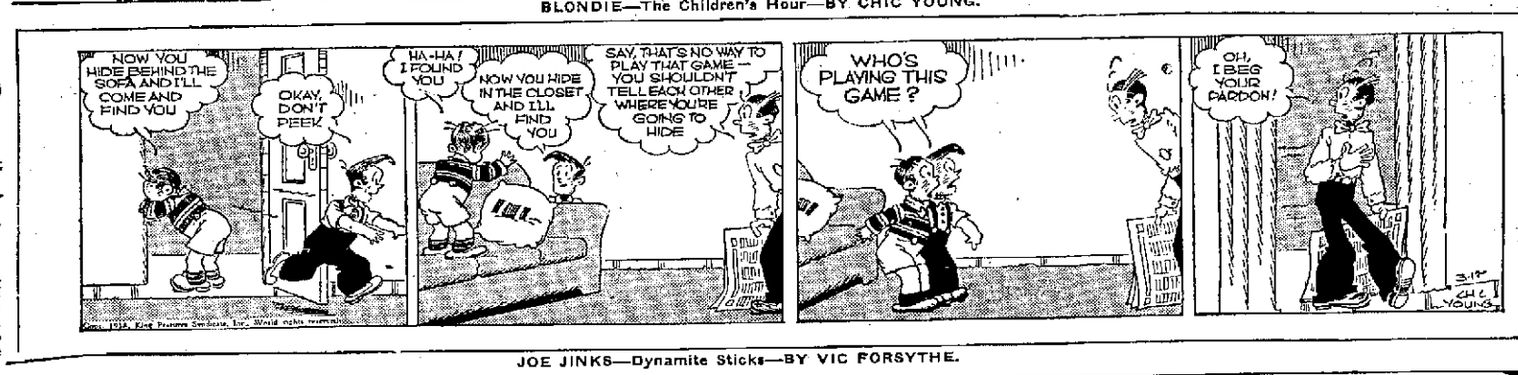

The warriors trembled when they heard Tarzan, the tree demon, engaging their prisoners in conversation. Kagundo himself was uneasy; but he knew he must bolster the courage of his men. "Stand firm!" he commanded; "the demon is powerless against mighty Kagundo."

Tarzan could not allow this boast to go unchallenged. His voice boomed out in the language of the Zambeh: "The time is not yet, but soon the wrath of Tarzan, the demon, shall fall upon you, Kagundo!" "What will you do?" the witch doctor asked in more subdued tones.

Tarzan did not answer. He himself did not know what he would do. He dared not make an immediate and specific threat, for at the moment he was powerless to enforce it. And he knew that the very vagueness of his warning would excite new doubts in Kagundo's mind.

So, the apeman departed. He believed that Bob and Dr. Brooks would be safe until tomorrow. Meanwhile he could give aid to Jeff and Mary, protect them against the fierce, hungry beasts which at this hour roamed the jungle, to stalk, to kill and devour their prey.

BLONDIE—The Children's Hour—BY CHIC YOUNG.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND — By Edward Wiggam, D. Sc.

1. Prof. Ellsworth Huntington of Yale recently discussed this whole question of heredity in marriage. As he points out, marriage is not altogether one's own business. The children that may be born are the business of the entire community. Minor inheritable defects such as hare lip, defective fingers or feet, are not very serious, but marked nervous or mental deficiency of any kind, such as tendencies to insanity, extreme drinking, general nervous imbalance and, above all, feeble-mindedness, are grave bars to marriages. While even experts cannot always predict heredity with certainty, yet their counsel should be sought where there is suspicion that grave defects may be inherited by the children.

2. Thoroly sound psychology because at least 90 persons out of every 100 can be completely trusted. After all, crooks, hypocrites and bluffers are comparatively rare, and even these trust each other.

3. No. Laws are never invented. They grow out of the habits and needs of a people. Any law enacted in advance of public opinion and social habit is bound to fail. It is not a law but a decree and we have had some pretty bad experiences in this country with decrees put thru by a minority in advance of social sanctions.

WITTY KITTY.

No one is more conscious of the necessity of "putting your best foot forward" than a young girl going out with a "blind date."

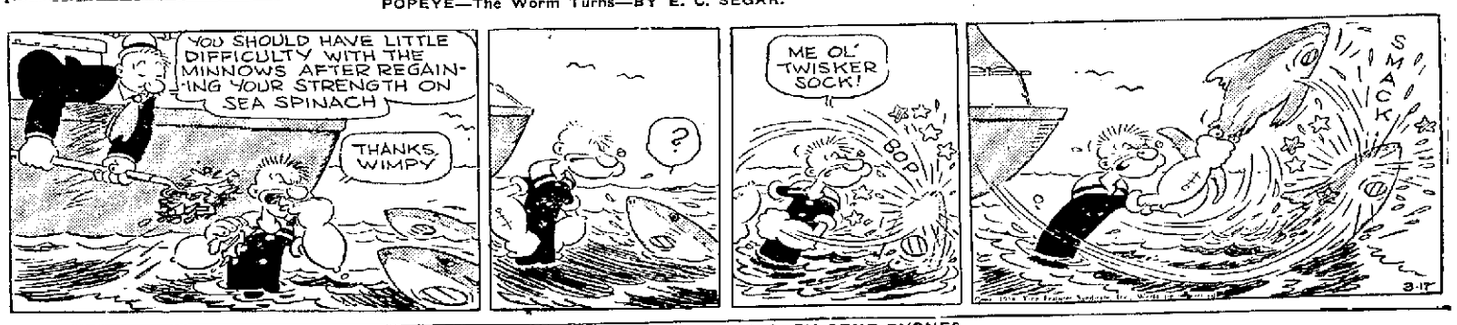

"A smart young man of today," says sophisticated Sue, "must look dumb and wear coat and trousers that don't match."

JOE JINKS—Dynamite Sticks—BY VIC FORSYTHE.

POPEYE—The Worm Turns—BY E. C. SEGAR.

REG'LAR FELLERS—Very Nautical—BY GENE BYRNES.
